Heraldic Description of Arms

Argent on a Cross Gules a Lion passant guardant between four Mullets of eight points Or a Chief Sable charged with an open Book proper thereon the word SCIENTIA in letters also Sable.

The lion and the four stars of the Southern Cross on the Cross of St George have reference to the State of New South Wales which brought the University into being; the open book with SCIENTIA across its page reminds us of its original purpose. Beneath the shield is the motto 'Manu et Mente' ('with Hand and Mind'), which is the motto of the Sydney Technical College, from which the University has developed. The motto is not an integral part of the Grant of Arms and could be changed at will; but it was the opinion of the University Council that the relationship with the parent institution should in some way be recorded.

Dean's Letter to New Students

This Handbook contains lots of important information set out in a formal manner. In this section, however, I would like to extend to the students of 1990 a warm personal welcome to the Law School on behalf of the staff. Our hope is that you will find the place to be both intellectually stimulating and friendly.

Our first students enrolled in 1971 and our first graduation ceremony was held in 1976. So the Law School is still relatively young. Some of us who are here now were here then. We recall the goals that we formulated for ourselves and the means by which we proposed to achieve those goals. We have managed to adhere quite closely to the original blueprint. The Law School has achieved an excellent reputation based in very large measure on the quality of the legal education that our graduates have received.

There are a number of basic propositions that underlie our course structures, our curriculum and our approaches to teaching and assessment. They include the following: that lawyers today need to be educated to degree standard in at least one other discipline; that law itself needs to be learned from broader perspectives than those of its own internal logic; that law graduates have a range of career options open to them apart from the traditional forms of private practice; that students learn most effectively if they are active participants in their own learning process. From such propositions we have developed our combined degree course programs, a relatively small compulsory core of subjects, with a wide choice of electives, our tradition of student preparation before classes and active participation during classes, our commitment to small class groups and continuous assessment.

Above all, there has been the tradition that "students matter". In small class groups we can get to know each other as individuals. Student representatives are actively involved in deliberations of School and Faculty and their committees. The Faculty encourages and supports a range of student-run activities such as moots and mock trials, and the UNSW Law Journal. The Faculty also seeks to help students obtain summer placements before graduation and employment after graduation. Law Library staff are always willing to assist students to locate materials and they teach in our Legal Research programs.

New elements are added from time to time. Recent developments include the teaching of computer retrieval of legal information and the clinical programs offered at Kingsford Legal Centre. The objective remains to produce graduates who will be sufficiently well prepared to function as legal professionals into the first half of the 21st century. The Faculty's Continuing Legal Education courses and our Coursework Masters program are designed to continue the process for graduates.

The Law School is not only a teaching institution. It has a solid reputation for legal research, particularly research aimed to help the law and legal institutions better to meet community needs. This presupposes a critical assessment of the adequacy of existing rules, institutions and processes. Many of the Faculty have contributed notably to law reform in a variety of ways. Many students have also contributed to such work.

The Law School has grown considerably since we began teaching in 1971. There are now over 1000 students and nearly 50 full-time academic staff. It is a busy place with a lot of different activities going on. But we are committed to maintaining the personal touch through small class groups and through the willingness of staff to deal with any questions or difficulties (academic, personal or other) that you may be facing.

We wish you success and enjoyment in your time here, and we look forward to working with you.

Ivan Shearer
Dean

Faculty Information

Some People Who Can Help You

If you require advice about enrolment, degree requirements, progression within courses, career advice or any other general faculty matters contact one of the following: Jill Hunter, Sub-Dean (Room 1011); Jane Trethewey, Administrative Officer (Room 1010); Ethel Gallo, Administrative Assistant (Room 1014).

Important: As changes may be made to information provided in this handbook, students should frequently consult the notice boards of the school and the official notice boards of the University.

It is University policy to promote equal opportunity in education (refer to EOE Policy Statement, University of New South Wales Calendar and the Guide for Students 1990).

Faculty of Law Enrolment Procedures

All students re-enrolling in 1990 should obtain a copy of the free leaflet Re-Enrolling 1990 available from School Offices and the office of the Admissions Section. This leaflet provides detailed information on enrolment procedures and fees, enrolment timetables by Faculty and course, enrolment as a miscellaneous student, locations and hours of Cashiers and late enrolments.

Law Library

The Law Library is situated on the eighth and ninth levels of the Library Tower and contains approximately 130,000 volumes. Rob Brian is the Law Librarian, assisted by Deputy Law Librarian John Rodwell and Librarians Joe Ury, Donald Goodsell and Peter Sidorko.

During Orientation Week and the first week of session, guided tours of the Law Library are conducted. Since the various courses provided in the Law School require extensive use of the Library and its materials, all students are urged to attend one of these tours. Legal Research and Writing classes assume that students have attended the orientation tour.

The Librarians and the other staff members are always ready to assist readers to make the best use of the Library's collection. Further useful information may be found in the Library Guide, which is available from the Library.

Professional Associates

In addition to full-time teaching staff in the Faculty of Law, each year there is a small number of distinguished members of the legal profession in New South Wales who work in close association with full-time teachers. They participate in all aspects of the presentation of courses covered by their professional specialization.

Enrolment Photographs

In order to assist the staff to get to know individual students, new students are required to present a passport-sized photograph when enrolling.

Assessment of Student Progress

Formal examinations are not the only method the Law School will use to assess students. Other methods of assessment include research projects, class participation, essays and moots (mock trials). The staff are always interested to hear what students think are fair methods of assessment.

Full-time Status

Students are reminded that a full-time course program is intended for students who devote the principal part of their available time to their course. Any additional commitment, in the form of paid work, training for sport at a significant level of achievement or voluntary work in community organizations, is bound to have an effect on a student's work. Past experience shows that commitment beyond 10-15 hours per week almost invariably has an adverse effect on student performance and in some cases has led directly to failure.

Students are strongly advised that, if outside commitment of this order is likely to be maintained consistently over a session, the commitment should be discussed in advance with the Sub-Dean and teachers should also be made aware of the circumstances in advance. Failure to do this may prejudice the possibility that the outside commitment is taken into account in relation to such matters as extensions of time for written work. It should be noted, however, that it is the individual teachers who determine whether outside commitments should constitute grounds for consideration in meeting the requirements of particular subjects.

Guidelines for Maximum Workload

The sequence of study for each course is set out in the Faculty handbook. Any student wishing to enrol in extra subjects (law or non-law), in a reduced program or in subjects which do not conform to the normal sequence, must seek prior approval from the Sub-Dean. Permission is given only in exceptional circumstances and on the basis of a written application submitted in advance of the relevant session or sessions outlining all the circumstances.

Financial Assistance to Students

Full time students within the Faculty of Law in need of temporary financial assistance at any time during their studies should be aware of the existence of certain grants and loans sponsored by some Sydney law firms. Students who feel they may need assistance of this type are invited to discuss their requirements on a strictly confidential basis with the Dean.

Other financial assistance

In addition to AUSTUDY financed by the Australian Government other forms of assistance available include short term cash loans and financial assistance to Aboriginal students. Full details appear in the University Calendar. Enquiries should be directed to the office of Student Services, Room G19, the Chancellery.

Prizes

A number of prizes are awarded annually. A full list appears in the last section of this Handbook. In addition Butterworths Pty Ltd donates a number of book prizes each year.

Student Clubs and Societies

Students have the opportunity of joining a wide range of clubs and societies. Many of these are affiliated with the Students' Union. There are numerous religious, social and cultural clubs and also many sporting clubs which are affiliated with the Sports Association.

Clubs and societies seeking to use the name of the University in their title, or seeking University recognition, must submit their constitution either to the Students' Union or the Sports Association if they wish to be affiliated with either of these bodies, or to the Registrar for approval by the University Council.

The University of New South Wales Law Society

The UNSW Law Society was formed early in 1971 and all law students are automatically members. The committee of the UNSW Law Society organizes academic, social and sporting activities and represents the law students in student affairs. The committee takes office on 1 November each year after an election.

Law students are welcome to contact the Law Society direct or through the pigeon-holes and noticeboard which are located near the Faculty office.

The Law Society Executive in 1990 is:

President	Heidi Lapaine
Vice-President	Colin Magee
Treasurer	Lisa Ogle

Secretary	Carlos Suarez
Mooting Co-ordinator	Giri Tenneti
Social Co-ordinator	Tom Howard
Co-editors	John Williams
	Simon Gilchrist

Student Members of Faculty

Each year in October up to six students are elected to membership of Faculty for the following year. All students enrolled in the Faculty are eligible to stand for election and to vote.

Student Members attend Faculty meetings and sit on various Faculty and School Committees.

Student Members of Faculty in 1990 are:

Atticus Richard Fleming

Lian Alexandra Fowler

Michael Green

Timothy J. Webster

Kingsford Legal Centre

Kingsford Legal Centre is a law clinic attached to the Faculty of Law. The Centre provides clinical training for final year law students who assist the Centre lawyers to give legal advice and assistance to members of the local community who cannot afford private legal assistance.

The Centre began operations in July, 1981. Currently it has 3 lawyers, one of whom (the Director) has the status of a lecturer in the Law Faculty. The Centre is jointly funded by the Faculty of Law and the Legal Aid Commission of N.S.W. The subject 90.721 Clinical Legal Experience, which requires students to work at the Legal Centre is an elective for final year students; students can take the course each session and during the summer. Students are required to take instructions from clients, prepare necessary documents, undertake legal research and assist the lawyer responsible for the matter in the preparation of any court hearings. In this way students can consolidate their study of the law by practical application in real life situations.

In its legal aid function the Centre has been prominent in several areas, particularly anti-discrimination, domestic violence and immigration. The Centre also has a considerable practice in family law. Centre lawyers have assisted persons facing committal under the Mental Health Act at Prince of Wales Hospital on a duty basis, and one Centre lawyer is duty solicitor at Waverly Local Court one day each week. Students accompany and assist the lawyers in these areas as in all others.

For further information please contact the Director on 398 6366.

The Centre for the Study of Law and Technology

Since its establishment in 1984, the Centre has undertaken research projects in such areas as the legal implications of electronic funds transfer systems, forensic medicine, expert legal systems and computer aided instruction. Links have been established with comparable centres located in the U.S.A. and in the U.K. and with a Harvard University/University of Minnesota joint venture on computer teaching of law. The Centre has sponsored seminars on Dispute Resolution, Computers for Lawyers, Computer Insurance, TechnoCrime, and Data Security.

Further information on the Centre and its activities may be obtained from Mr Brian Bromberger (telephone 697 2231) or Mr Philip Bates (telephone 697 2584).

Aboriginal Law Centre

Established within the Faculty of Law in 1986 with Professor Garth Nettheim as Chair and Acting Director. The Centre aims to develop and co-ordinate research, teaching and dissemination of information in the multi-disciplinary area of the relationship between Aboriginal peoples and the law.

The Centre took over the role of the existing Aboriginal Law Research Unit, established in 1981, and continued projects initiated by the Unit.

Some of the objectives of the Centre are:

- to provide a focus for, and to foster research concerning Aboriginal peoples and the law;
- to develop and maintain a specialized collection of materials relating to Aboriginal peoples and the law;
- to achieve publication of the results of research undertaken by individuals working with the Centre or independently of the Centre; to disseminate information concerning Aboriginal peoples and the law to interested individuals and bodies throughout Australia and abroad;
- to organize and participate in conferences and seminars from time to time;
- to encourage the development of curricula and teaching materials in the field of Aboriginal peoples and the law for use in the University of New South Wales and elsewhere.

Communications Law Centre

The Centre, which is affiliated with The University of New South Wales, was established in 1987. The diversity of issues which arise in communications means that the Centre deals with a wide range of areas of law, including broadcasting and telecommunications law, copyright, defamation, contempt, trade practices and aspects of administrative, commercial and company law.

The Centre plays an active advocacy role, providing legal advice and litigating matters related to communications law where they have significant public interest or "test case" potential. It undertakes research in areas related to media law and regularly makes submissions to government and other inquiries on communications matters. Located on campus at UNSW, the Centre co-operates with the Law School in research and teaching, as well as organising seminars and conferences, collecting and disseminating specialist legal information, and publishing occasional papers and a monthly journal, Communications Update. Volunteer assistance from students and others is welcomed in appropriate projects.

The Centre is the first of its kind in Australia and is funded by the Law Foundation of New South Wales, with assistance from the Myer Foundation of Victoria. For more information contact Co-ordinator, Dr Kate Harrison or Solicitor, Julia Hall.

Taxation, Business and Investment Law Research Centre

The Centre has been founded within the Faculty of Law. Projects examining International Tax, Capital Gains Tax, and Tax Procedure are currently being undertaken. The Centre offers an extensive range of seminars in these areas. New research projects are being developed include the redrafting of the Tax Code and Tax Compliance.

For further information contact the Director, Professor Yuri Grbich (telephone 697 2268).

Human Rights Centre

The Centre was established in August 1986. The objectives of the Centre are: to undertake, encourage and facilitate research (including postgraduate research) in the field of human rights; to co-ordinate and develop subjects in the field of human rights including the establishment of cross-faculty teaching linkages; to conduct specialized human rights courses of a continuing education nature for various professional groups such as lawyers, judges, police, doctors, school teachers, journalists, human rights workers; to promote and stimulate informed thinking about human rights and their implications for law and society through excellence in analysis and research; to organise occasional conferences for both specialist and non-specialist groups and assist in similar activity by others; to assist, in association with other relevant bodies, in the dissemination of information about human rights to the broader community; and to collaborate with a variety of bodies and individuals working in the human rights area at the national, regional and international levels.

For further information contact the Acting Director, Associate Professor Pat Hyndman (telephone 697-2240) or the Chairman, Professor Garth Nettheim (telephone 697-2252).

Undergraduate Study

The Faculty of Law enrolled its first students in 1971. The Faculty offers two undergraduate degrees: Bachelor of Laws (LLB) and Bachelor of Jurisprudence (BJuris). The LLB degree is designed as a professional degree which will satisfy the academic requirements for admission to practice. It is offered as part of seven undergraduate combined courses involving full-time study, and leading to the award of two degrees. The LLB degree is offered to students who already possess a first degree as a three-year full-time course. It is also offered as a part-time course which requires six years' study. The BJuris degree is not designed to provide a professional qualification and is offered as a separate degree, or as part of the combined Jurisprudence/Law course.

The Law School is situated on the main university campus and seeks to take full advantage of the opportunities this provides for interdisciplinary study. Law is a system of authority and regulation in society, and must respond to social needs and changes. The rapidly changing and highly sophisticated society of the next half century will call for lawyers who are not merely competent but who are roundly educated men and women, ready to adapt to continuing change, sensitive to social issues, and equipped to deal with an increasingly educated public. The Law School seeks to produce graduates who are ready to take up the challenges, not only of an expanding role for the practitioner, but of the many other occupations where the value of a lawyer's skills is increasingly recognized.

Bachelor of Laws

The Bachelor of Laws degree (whether taken as part of a combined course or separately) is designed to give a student a sound knowledge of a number of areas of law that are fundamental to legal work, a broad conspectus of the legal system as a whole, the experience of working in depth or specializing in a significant number of areas of choice, and an opportunity to develop certain specific legal skills.

These objectives are reflected in the various elements of the course; but the real development of the student's potential as a lawyer depends as much on the learning situation as on what is learnt. The aim is to keep formal lecturing to a minimum, with students learning from the beginning to find the law for themselves. The main purpose of class contact is to develop the students' capacity to deal with the law after finding it - to interpret it, analyse it, criticize it, see the possibilities of distinction and development, relate it to real problems and use it efficiently and creatively. This requires the active participation of students in sufficiently small groups to allow interaction between the minds of student and teacher, and student and student. A class is normally scheduled over a continuous period of two hours.

Subjects taught in the Law Faculty extend over one or two sessions each of 14 weeks; in either case there is usually some form of examination at the end of a session. However, examinations are only one method of assessing students, as other work undertaken during the year is also taken into account.

On the completion of each law subject a student is allotted a specified number of credit points. To obtain the degree each student must build up at least the required total number, and also satisfy other requirements.

If the combined Commerce/Law, Economics/Law, Science/Law, Arts/Law, Social Science/Law or Social Work/Law courses are taken the required total of credit points for Law subjects is 81; in the combined Jurisprudence/Law course (where there are fewer non-Law subjects), it is 93; in the LLB course for graduates or the part-time LLB course, it is 75. In each case compulsory subjects total 45 points, leaving the balance to be made up from elective subjects.

Students who have attended and satisfactorily completed subjects in a Law School at another recognized university may, on application, receive standing for those subjects provided that their application falls within the University and Faculty rules on advanced standing. Students already enrolled in the Faculty of Law who wish to intercalate a period of study overseas, and who wish to seek advanced standing for law subjects studied, are strongly advised to seek advice from the Sub-Dean well before arrangements for entry to the overseas Law School are finalized.

The relevant Rules are set out separately, and compulsory and elective subjects are listed in Rule 5., appearing later under Rules for Award of Degrees.

Bachelor of Jurisprudence

The Bachelor of Jurisprudence (BJuris), unlike the LLB degree, is not designed to provide a qualification for the professional practice of law. It provides a basic knowledge of law, an opportunity to study selected legal subjects of special interest, and significant study in other faculties of subjects relevant to an understanding of the working of the law. Various combinations of Law subjects and non-Law subjects are possible and a course may be moulded to meet various vocational ends, eg for industrial officers or advocates, public servants, business executives, law librarians.

Teaching methods in law subjects are the same as in the LLB degree course.

The BJuris degree is available as a pass degree in the Jurisprudence/Law course, which combines the most extensive legal education with the study of important related subjects in other faculties. It is also available as a separate course.

Qualification as Barrister or Solicitor

Admission to practise as a barrister or solicitor in New South Wales is controlled by the Supreme Court of New South Wales and is regulated by Rules of Court. Certain information is set out hereunder as background information, but each student desiring to qualify as a barrister or solicitor should make personal inquiries to the Secretary of the Barristers and Solicitors Admission Boards, Supreme Court, Queens Square, Sydney - telephone 230 8713. This officer will be in a position to advise authoritatively as to the requirements relative to a particular case, and supply the relevant forms and information.

The following requirements are particularly drawn to the notice of students. A student desiring to become a barrister must meet certain examination requirements and be admitted as a student-at-law not less than two years before seeking admission to the bar. The examination requirements will be satisfied by possession of the LLB degree of the University.

A student wishing to become a solicitor must meet certain examination requirements, be admitted as a student-at-law not more than six months after the date of commencement of the law course, and attend a six-month full-time practical skills course at the College of Law. The examination requirements will be satisfied by the possession of the LLB degree of the University. After successful completion of the College of Law course students are admitted as solicitors but are required to complete three years of restricted practice (of which the first twelve months at least must be as an employee solicitor), and to undertake a Continuing Legal Education Office Management Course before being entitled to practise on their own account.

College of Law

The College of Law was established by the Law Society of New South Wales in 1974 at St Leonards. The College is not an alternative to University education in law, ie it does not offer courses satisfying the academic requirements for admission to practise as a solicitor. The College does, however, mark a significant change in the system of professional training of prospective solicitors. Previously the practical component of legal education for student clerks was service under Articles of Clerkship in a legal office; alternatively a graduate in law from the Australian National University, the University of Sydney or the University of New South Wales could serve a twelve-month period of full-time graduate articles. The College of Law course, is a six-month full-time course which is designed to provide the practical training which would otherwise be obtained in practice.

The whole course is related to actual practice as far as possible and covers basic areas of work encountered in legal practice. Students are grouped into 'firms' and work within up-to-date well-equipped 'offices'. They are provided with a variety of practice experiences in a series of legal situations. Each student will proceed to study the material and act on instructions as a member of the firm, under supervision of a tutor who will combine the roles of senior partner and what was formerly called 'master solicitor'. During the course students also attend solicitors' offices, barristers' chambers, government departments, courts of all jurisdictions, registries, and professional offices of all types in order to obtain maximum contact with a lawyer's work outside the office.

Enquiries regarding the College of Law should be addressed to The Director, The College of Law, PO Box 2, St Leonards, NSW 2065.

ANU Legal Workshop

Each year, a course of professional training for the practice of law is conducted at the Australian National University. The course is a six-month full-time course, conducted by the Legal Workshop of the Faculty of Law. Under reciprocal arrangements, graduates of the Legal Workshop will be entitled to be admitted to practise in New South Wales, but they will at first be given only restricted practising certificates in a manner analogous to students completing the course at the College of Law.

Graduates of the University of New South Wales are eligible to apply for admission to courses run by the Workshop.

Courses Available

The following courses are available:

1. A five-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Jurisprudence and Bachelor of Laws.
2. A five-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws.
3. A five-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Social Science and Bachelor of Laws.
4. A five-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Commerce and Bachelor of Laws.
5. A five-year combined course leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Economics and Bachelor of Laws.
6. A five-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Laws.
7. A six-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Social Work and Bachelor of Laws.
8. A three-year full-time course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws; this course is available only to graduates or graduands.
9. A six-year part-time course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws; this course is only available to graduates and people over 23 who have achieved professional maturity of roughly equivalent nature.
10. A three-year full-time course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Jurisprudence.

Students in courses in the Law Faculty who discover they have made a wrong choice of course within the Faculty should consult the Administrative Officer as soon as possible. It is sometimes possible to effect changes without seriously affecting progress in the new course; the earlier the change can be made the easier the transition.

Combined Jurisprudence/Law Course

Bachelor of Jurisprudence/Bachelor of Laws

BJuris LLB

This course offers the most extensive legal education. Non-law subjects make up approximately one sixth of the combined course and are selected with regard to their relevance to legal studies.

The main features of the combined Jurisprudence/Law course are as follows:

1. The course is a five-year full-time combined course leading to the award of the two degrees of Bachelor of Jurisprudence and Bachelor of Laws (BJuris LLB).
2. The first three years of the course include non-Law subjects together with Law subjects totalling 45 credit points.
3. Students are required to obtain the approval of the Faculty of Law for their proposed program of non-Law subjects, with an indication of Law electives they intend to study.

Non-Law requirements

(1) The non-Law subjects contribute to the development of the student's capacity as a lawyer and to a more complete understanding of the law. Subjects which have been approved for this purpose are Economics, Economic History, Political Science, Sociology, Philosophy, History, Accountancy, Psychology and Industrial Relations. A student may apply for special approval for another subject.

(2) One sequence of subjects is studied through to third-year level and another for one year.

4. Students must satisfy any subject prerequisites (but not general faculty prerequisites) for subjects studied in other faculties. There are no general faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.

5. The whole of the final two years of the course, as well as part of the first three years, consists of Law subjects.

6. The degree of Bachelor of Jurisprudence may be awarded after successful completion of all subjects and units prescribed for the first three years of the course.

A typical structure of a Jurisprudence/Law course is set out below. Students who commenced their course before 1984 should consult the Sub-Dean or Administrative Officer to confirm the compulsory subjects which apply to them.

Subject A represents a major sequence of three years' study in one of the subjects listed in para 3.(1) above; subject B represents a subject studied at first-year level only from these subjects. Students are strongly advised to consult the Arts and Commerce Faculty Handbooks before completing enrolment or re-enrolment details.

Combined Arts/Law Course

Bachelor of Arts/Bachelor of Laws

BA LLB

This course gives students the maximum freedom to follow their interests in the Faculty of Arts. The Law subjects, while fewer in number than in the Jurisprudence/Law course, satisfy the requirements for the award of the professional LLB degree.

The main features of the combined Arts/Law course are as follows:

1. The course is a five-year full-time combined course leading to the award of the two degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws (BA LLB).

2. The first three years of the course include (1) Law subjects totalling at least 32 Law credit points and (2) studies in at least three schools or programs offering Arts subjects, to the value of 72 Arts credit points or more, of which at least 36 must be obtained by the completion of an approved major sequence (some Arts schools require more than 36 credit points) in a school or program, and at least 12 must be Upper Level credit points obtained in other schools or programs. For details of approved major sequences in Arts subjects, see Undergraduate Study: Subject Descriptions in the Faculty of Arts Handbook. Where an Arts/Law student completes a Law subject offered to both Arts and Law students the subject is counted as a Law subject.

3. Students must satisfy the normal prerequisites for entry to the Arts Faculty, and to individual subjects in that faculty. (Arts Faculty subject prerequisites may be checked from Undergraduate Study: Summary of Subjects in the current Faculty of Arts Handbook). There are no general faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.

4. A student wishing to take the BA degree course at Honours level is required to assume a heavier workload than that required for the study of the BA degree course at Pass level, and approval for his or her program must be obtained from the relevant Arts school and the Head of the School of Law. At least one and possibly two additional years of study are required. Alternatively a student may consider first completing the BA degree course at Honours level (4 years) and then seeking admission to the three-year LLB degree course for graduates.

5. The degree of Bachelor of Arts may be awarded where a student has successfully completed all requirements in Law and in Arts for the first three years of the course, or where a student has obtained 108 Law and Arts credit points, provided that the student has obtained at least 72 Arts credit points and satisfies the requirements for the award of the Bachelor of Arts degree.

6. A student who fails to complete the full program may apply for advanced standing in the Faculty of Arts under Rule 7 of the Faculty of Arts.

7. The whole of the final two years of the course, as well as part of the first three years, consists of Law subjects.

A typical combined Arts/Law course is set out below. Students who commenced their law course before 1984 should consult the Sub-Dean or Administrative Officer to confirm the compulsory subjects which apply to them. For complete details of Arts subjects students must consult the Faculty of Arts Handbook.

Combined Social Science/Law Course

Bachelor of Social Science/Bachelor of Laws

BSocSc LLB

This course provides an opportunity to obtain two degrees of professional importance to the public sector, community service, business and law practice. In addition, the student has the option to work towards a research career in a variety of disciplines.

The main features of the combined Social Science/Law course are as follows:

1. The course is of five years full-time study leading to the award of the two degrees of Bachelor of Social Science and Bachelor of Laws (BSocSc LLB).

2. Students must satisfy the normal prerequisites for entry to the Arts Faculty, and to individual subjects in that Faculty. (Arts Faculty subject prerequisites may be checked from Undergraduate Study: Summary of Subjects in the current Faculty of Arts Handbook). There are no general Faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.

3. The first three years of the course include:

(1) Law subjects totalling at least 32 Law credit points; (2) the Bachelor of Social Science core program totalling 48 Social Science credit points; and (3) an approved major sequence in the Faculty of Arts of at least 36 Arts credit points (some Arts schools require more than 36 credit points). The major sequence must be taken in one of the following schools: Computer Science, Economic History, Economics, Geography, History, Industrial Relations and Organizational Behaviour, Mathematics, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Science and Technology Studies, Sociology.

4. The degree of Bachelor of Social Science may be awarded where a student has successfully completed all requirements in Law, Arts and Social Science for the first three years of the combined course.

5. A student who fails to complete the full program may apply for advanced standing in the Faculty of Arts under Rule 7 of the Faculty of Arts.

6. The whole of the final two years of the course, as well as part of the first three years, consists of Law subjects.

7. A student wishing to take the BSocSc degree course at Honours level should consult with the Co-ordinator of the BSocSc degree course before commencing the 4th year of the combined program.

The structure of the combined Social Science/Law course is set out below. For complete details of Social Science and Arts subjects students must consult the Faculty of Arts Handbook.

Combined Economics/Law and Commerce/Law Courses

These courses provide an opportunity to obtain two degrees of professional importance to business, administration and commercial law practice. The Law ingredient is the same as for the combined Arts/Law course, although the overall course is probably somewhat heavier, particularly in Year 3.

In Commerce the student may choose one of the five specializations – Accounting, Finance, Information Systems, Industrial Relations or Marketing – and may (and in the Accounting and Finance specializations must) relate the choice of Law electives to the Commerce specialization.

The main features of the combined Commerce/Law and Economics/Law courses are as follows:

1. The courses are of five years' full-time study leading to the award of the two degrees of Bachelor of Commerce (Accounting, Finance, Information Systems, Industrial Relations, or Marketing) and Bachelor of Laws (BCom LLB) and Bachelor of Economics and Bachelor of Laws (BEc LLB).
2. The student must elect to take one of the six courses at the beginning of Year 1. Changes from one Commerce course or the Economics course to another before the beginning of Year 2 may be arranged; enquiries should be made in the first instance to the Administrative Officer, Faculty of Law.
3. Students must satisfy the normal prerequisites for entry to the Commerce and Economics Faculty and to individual subjects in that faculty. There are no general faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.
4. The requirements relating to Honours in the BCom and BEc degree courses are noted at the end of the program for each specialization.
5. Under certain circumstances the degree of Bachelor of Commerce or Bachelor of Economics may be awarded before the completion of the full five-year program, but in any event not before the successful completion of the first three years of the combined course. Full details of these conditions may be obtained from the Commerce and Economics Faculty Office or the Commerce and Economics Handbook. Any student who fails to complete the full combined course program may apply for advanced standing in the Faculty of Commerce and Economics.

Notwithstanding the above regulations, students undertaking the combined Bachelor of Commerce or Bachelor of Economics at Honours level/Bachelor of Laws courses may be awarded the degree of Bachelor of Commerce or Bachelor of Economics at Honours level once they have completed the Honours year and the Commerce or Economics and Law requirements of the first three years of the combined BCom or BEc at Honours level/LLB course.

6. The whole of the final two years of the course, as well as part of the first three years, consists of Law subjects. Students who commenced their law course before 1984 should consult the Sub-Dean or Administrative Officer to confirm the compulsory subjects which apply to them.

Combined Science/Law Course

Bachelor of Science/Bachelor of Laws

BSc LLB

This course gives the students the maximum freedom to follow their interests in the subjects controlled by the Board of Studies in Science and Mathematics. The Law component is the same as for the combined Arts/Law course although the overall course is probably somewhat heavier, particularly in Years 2 and 3.

The main features of the combined Science/Law course are as follows:

1. The course is a five-year full-time combined course leading to the award of the two degrees of Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Laws (BSc LLB).

2. The first three years of the course include at least 18 units in the Science course together with Law subjects totalling at least 32 credit points. The remaining two years of the course comprise Law subjects totalling at least 49 credit points.

3. The 18 Science course units must contain no more than 8 Level I units of which 2 must be Mathematics 1 and at least 4 Level III units which must be chosen from related disciplines.

4. Students must satisfy the normal prerequisites for entry to the Board of Studies in Science and Mathematics and to individual subjects there.

There are no general faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.

5. Students desiring to enrol in the BSc degree course at Honours level are not able to complete the course in five years and must obtain approval from the Faculty of Law and the Board of Studies in Science and Mathematics for their programs. With the approval of the relevant school and of the Head of the School of Law, a student may follow a standard Honours program in the Science course which can be completed by an additional year of study. Alternatively the student may consider first completing a BSc degree course at Honours level (4 years) and then seeking admission to the three-year LLB degree course for graduates.

6. The degree of Bachelor of Science is not awarded until the completion of the full five-year program, but any student who fails to complete the full program may apply for advanced standing in the Board of Studies in Science and Mathematics.

Students contemplating enrolling in this course should consult fully with the Board of Studies in Science and Mathematics and with the School of Law before enrolment.

A typical structure of a combined Science/Law course is set out below. Subject to timetable restrictions, the full range of Science programs is available to Law students. Students who commenced their law course before 1984 should consult the Sub-Dean or Administrative Officer to confirm the compulsory subjects which apply to them.

Combined Social Work/Law Course

Bachelor of Social Work/Bachelor of Laws

BSW LLB

This unique and challenging six-year full-time course qualifies students for the professional practice of both social work and law. In the first four years, core social work and legal subjects are combined, while in the final two years students are able to choose from a wide range of specialized electives in both professional disciplines. The final social work field placement is undertaken in a legal setting.

Graduates will be equipped with the knowledge and skills to work in a variety of emerging areas which require an understanding of the law, social work theory and practice and a commitment to social justice. Such areas include consumer protection, tenancy obligations and entitlements, land rights, child custody and family property disputes, social security and welfare rights.

The main features of the combined Social Work/Law course are as follows:

1. The course is a six-year full-time combined course leading to the award of the two degrees of Bachelor of Social Work and Bachelor of Laws (BSW LLB).

2. There are no general course prerequisites for the Social Work course but students must study Social Work subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Professional Studies.

There are no general faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.

3. A student wishing to take the BSW degree course at Honours level is required to assume a heavier workload than that required for the study of the BSW degree course at Pass level, and approval for his or her program must be obtained from the Head of the School of Social Work and the Head of the School of Law. A student would be required to attend an additional two hours per week Honours Seminar in the final year.

4. The degree of Bachelor of Social Work is not awarded until the completion of the full six-year program, but any student who fails to complete the full program may apply for advanced standing in the Faculty of Professional Studies Social Work degree course. Alternatively a student may apply for advanced standing in the Faculty of Law Jurisprudence degree course.

The structure of the combined Social Work/Law course is set out below. For complete details of Social Work subjects students must consult the Faculty of Professional Studies handbook.

Bachelor of Laws Degree Course (Full-time) for Graduates or Graduands

Bachelor of Laws

LLB

This course enables students who have already completed another degree to obtain the Bachelor of Laws degree (the nature of which has been described earlier in this handbook) by three years' full-time study. The main features of the course are as follows:

1. The course is of three years' full-time study leading to the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree.
2. The course is available to graduates or graduands of another faculty of this or another approved university.
3. There are no subject or faculty prerequisites for entry to the course but students must study Law subjects in an approved sequence.

The following is an approved sequence of subjects for the three-year Bachelor of Laws degree course for graduates; other sequences may be approved in particular cases. Students who commenced their law course before 1984 should consult the Sub-Dean or Administrative Officer to confirm the compulsory subjects which apply to them.

* If students wish to specialize by taking advanced electives in the field of business law they are strongly advised to take Business Associations 1 and 2 at this stage of their course.

 Taken after or concurrently with 90.742 Legal Research and Writing 2.

Year 3

Law electives to complete degree requirements.

Bachelor of Laws Degree Course (Part-time)

Bachelor of Laws

LLB

The part-time course is only available to graduates and people over 23 who have achieved professional maturity of roughly equivalent nature. The course is not available to people who proceed direct from the Higher School Certificate. The course is a six year part-time course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws (LLB) and satisfies academic requirements for admission to practice. It involves attendance at the Kensington campus on two afternoons a week from 2 pm during the academic year.

The subjects of the LLB degree course are set out in Rule 5, appearing later under Rules for Award of Degrees. However, it will not be possible to provide the full range of electives at times convenient to part-time students.

Students must complete law subjects (including compulsory subjects) carrying 75 credit points. An approved sequence of subjects for the part-time course is set out below.

Students who commenced their law course before 1984 should consult the Sub-Dean or Administrative Officer to confirm the compulsory subjects which apply to them.

* Taken after or concurrently with 90.742 Legal Research and Writing 2.

 If students wish to specialize by taking advanced electives in the field of business law they are strongly advised to take Business Associations 1 and 2 at this stage of their course.

Bachelor of Jurisprudence Degree Course

Bachelor of Jurisprudence

BJuris

The Bachelor of Jurisprudence (BJuris) degree course, unlike the LLB degree course, is not designed to provide a qualification for the professional practice of law. It provides a basic knowledge of law, an opportunity to study selected legal subjects of special interest, and significant study in other faculties of subjects relevant to an understanding of the working of the law. Various combinations of Law subjects and non-Law subjects are possible and a course may be moulded to meet various vocational ends, eg for industrial officers or advocates, public servants, business executives, law librarians.

Non-Law subjects make up approximately one-third of the course and are selected with regard to their relevance to legal studies.

The main features of the course are as follows:

1. The course is a three-year full-time course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Jurisprudence (BJuris).
2. The Law subjects must include 90.112 Legal System – Torts, 90.741 Legal Research and Writing 1, 90.161 Criminal Law, 90.216 Administrative Law, 90.141 Contracts, 90.742 Legal Research and Writing 2, 90.743 Research Component, and 90.832 Legal Theory or 90.882 Law and Social Theory*.
3. Students are required to obtain the approval of the Faculty of Law for their proposed program of non-Law subjects; the program should provide an integrated pattern of legal and non-legal studies.
4. The non-Law subjects shall include, unless otherwise approved, a major sequence of three years study.
5. Students must satisfy any subject prerequisites (but not general faculty prerequisites) for subjects studied in other faculties. There are no general faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.

* Students who commenced their law course before 1984 should consult the Sub-Dean or Administrative Officer to confirm the compulsory subjects which apply to them.

Undergraduate Study

Subject Descriptions

Identification of Subjects by Number

A subject is defined by the Academic Board as 'a unit of instruction approved by the University as being a discrete part of the requirements for a course offered by the University'.

Each approved subject of the University is identifiable both by number and by name as this is a check against nomination of subject other than the one intended.

Subject numbers are allocated by the Academic Registrar and the system of allocation is based on the following guidelines:

1. The authority offering the subject, normally a School of the University, is indicated by the number before the decimal point.
2. Each subject number is unique and is not used for more than one subject title.
3. Subject numbers may not be re-used with a new subject title within ten years of the prior use.
4. Graduate subjects are indicated by a suffix 'G' to a number with three digits after the decimal point. In other subjects three or four digits are used after the decimal point.

Subjects taught are listed in full in the handbook of the faculty or board of studies responsible for the particular course within which the subjects are taken. Subject descriptions are contained in the appropriate section in the handbooks.

The identifying numerical prefixes for each subject authority are set out on the following page.

Servicing Subjects are those taught by a school or department outside its own faculty. Their subject descriptions are published in the handbook of the faculty which originates the subject and are also published in the handbook of the Faculty in which the subject is taught.

The following pages contain descriptions for most of the subjects offered for the courses described in this book, the exception being the General Education subjects. For General Education subjects see the General Studies Handbook which is available free of charge.

HSC Exam Prerequisites

Subjects which require prerequisites for enrolment in terms of the HSC Examination percentile range, refer to the 1978 and subsequent Examinations.

Candidates for enrolment who obtained the HSC in previous years or hold other high school matriculation should check with the appropriate school on what matriculation status is required for admission to a subject.

Information Key

The following is the key to the information which may be supplied about each subject:

School of Law

90.101 Litigation

F Hpw4 C6

An introduction to issues and problems in three areas:

Civil procedure: focus on selected topics - parties to an action; pleadings and the discovery and exchange of information. Rules are examined to determine the extent to which they facilitate just, accurate and speedy resolution of disputes.

Criminal procedure: the law and related issues associated with arrest, the use of warrants, police searches, interrogation and the formulation of pleadings. Comparisons drawn between the civil and criminal pre-trial processes.

Evidence: a basic understanding of the legal and philosophical principles related to the presentation of evidence in court. In particular, examination of the rules designed to protect the accused at trial; the rule against hearsay evidence; the use of expert evidence; the treatment of unreliable evidence and some analysis of the philosophy of proof and probability theory.

The effect of pre-trial procedures on the final outcome at trial highlighted.

90.112 Legal System – Torts

F Hpw4 C6

The legal significance of the arrival of the British in Australia; the principal institutions of the legal system, particularly the courts, the legislature, and the executive arms of government; the judiciary; the legal profession; their history, roles, interrelationships, operation and techniques; general constitutional principles and institutions; the notion and consequences of federalism; Bill of Rights proposals; precedent and statutory interpretation, practice and theory; sources of Australian law, including the past and present status of Aboriginal customary law; origins of the common law; classifications within the common law; jurisdiction of Australian courts; the development of compensation law, with particular reference to workers' compensation and occupational health and safety; modern statutory compensation schemes; the rules and concepts of the law of torts, their origins, growth, operation and limitations; tort law protection from assault, injury and death; negligence; interests in another's life and services; false and misleading statements affecting economic interests; loss distribution; employers' liability; occupiers' liability; causation; remoteness of damage; product liability; interference with interests in land; interference with personal liberty. Some of these topics are dealt with in outline only.

90.141 Contracts

F Hpw4 C6

The legal protection given to those who enter into promissory arrangements, eg those cases which explain mutual intention and consideration, both of which are necessary for the formation of an enforceable contract, the interpretation of contract terms and conditions, the effect of changed circumstances, misrepresentation, illegality, privity and discharge. Remedies which the law provides for breach of contract. Readings provided which encourage students to examine the role of contract law in society from an historical and contemporary standpoint.

90.161 Criminal Law

F Hpw4 C6

The principles of criminal law and criminal liability. Aims to: promote and refine research and social policy analysis skills; develop a rigorous analytic and socially oriented approach to the study of criminal law; investigate the constitution of concepts like crime, criminal and criminal law; question traditional approaches which assume a unified set of general principles; suggest an approach to criminal law as a number of diverse fields of regulation; acknowledge the importance of forms of regulation outside the criminal law; examine empirical material on the actual operation of the N.S.W. criminal process such as court statistics and a court observation exercise; examine the substantive rules developed in selected criminal offence areas; stress the importance and relevance of criminal law in an understanding of law, even (and especially) for those who do not intend to practise in the area. Topics include: the phenomenon of crime, the criminal process, criminal responsibility, homicide offences, public order offences, drug offences, offences against the person, offences of dishonest acquisition, general defences, complicity, conspiracy, motor traffic offences.

90.215 Federal Constitutional Law

S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

Federal constitutional law, stressing the legislative and judicial powers of the Commonwealth and the judicial interpretation by the High Court of the extent of those powers, in particular: trade and commerce, external affairs, corporations, appropriation, grants and taxation powers, family law and industrial law powers, inconsistency of Commonwealth and State laws, freedom of interstate trade and commerce, excise and implied limitations on Commonwealth and State powers. Techniques and approaches adopted by the High Court in interpreting the Australian Constitution, and occasionally, federal executive power.

Further study of constitutional law may be undertaken in 90.210 The High Court of Australia.

90.216 Administrative Law

S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

Principles and procedures for review of administrative action. Topics: relations between different agencies of government (legislative, administrative, judicial); delegated legislation; judicial power; the Ombudsman; the Administrative Appeals Tribunal; principles of judicial review (denial of natural justice, going beyond power, error of law); procedures for judicial review; the Administrative Decisions (Judicial Review) Act, 1977 (Cth.).

90.301 Property and Equity

F Hpw4 C6

The basic principles of the law of property, transcending the traditional boundaries of real and personal property. For reasons of time and convenience, most topics are those usually considered in the context of 'real property'.

Enquiry into the meaning of the concepts of property and the purposes that are or ought to be fulfilled by the law of property. Some of the traditional concepts and classifications adopted by the common law in the content of the study of fixtures. The impact of the Commonwealth Constitution upon the law of property. Topics: possession as a proprietary interest in land and goods; some basic concepts such as seisin and title; the fragmentation of proprietary interests, including the doctrines of tenure and estates; an introduction to future interests; the development of legal and equitable interests, including a comparative treatment of their nature, extent and sphere of enforceability and an introduction to trusts; legal and equitable remedies; the statutory regulation of proprietary interests in land, including an examination of the Torrens and deeds registration systems; co-ownership; an introduction to security interests; the acquisition of proprietary interests; the alienability of interests including trusts for sale; commercial transactions involving leasehold estates in land and bailment of goods; private planning in relation to land by means of easements and restrictive covenants.

90.621 Law, Lawyers and SocietyS1 S2 Hpw4 C3

1. The lawyer-client relationship, including who exercises control and the lawyers' duties to accept work, to keep client confidences, to act competently and to avoid conflicts of interest; the social implications of lawyers' professional behaviour. 2. The adversary system of litigation and the lawyers' role therein, both generally and specifically as defence counsel and as prosecutor in criminal cases. 3. The structure of the profession and methods of regulation including discussion of the concept of professionalism, control of admission, discipline generally and conducting court specifically; selection and control of the judiciary. 4. Issues relating to the delivery of legal services, including advertising and solicitation by lawyers, specialization in lawyers' practice, the structure and availability of legal aid, the regulation of lawyers' fees, the extent of the lawyers' monopoly and the role of non-lawyers in delivering legal services.

90.741 Legal Research and Writing 1F Hpw2 C2

The literature, both legal and non-legal, relevant to the law in Australia. The contents of a law library, how it works and is ordered and how lawyers go about using it to find the law. Practice in handling the principal legal materials in the law library, notably law reports, collections of statutes, digests and material on law reform. An introduction to case analysis and statutory interpretation. An introduction to the use of computerized legal research methods. The methods and objectives of legal and empirical research.

90.742 Legal Research and Writing 2S1 S2 Hpw2 C1

A revision of legal research skills acquired in 90.741 Legal Research and Writing 1, particularly the use of Australian digests, law reform materials and indexes to legal periodicals. Practice in ascertaining delegated legislation, in using English, Commonwealth and US digests and in tracing recent amendments to case-law, statutes and regulations. Further instruction on the use of computers for retrieval of legal materials, and for manipulating legal texts.

90.743 Research Component

This subject must be taken either concurrently with or after 90.742 Legal Research and Writing 2, though students are advised where possible to complete Legal Research and Writing 2 first so that they have a command of the relevant research techniques. Students are required to write an essay or present an argument in a moot, on the basis that their performance in conducting research carefully and thoroughly for the essay or moot is assessed by the subject teacher on a pass-fail basis. This assessment of the quality of the research will be made in addition to a separate assessment, in the normal fashion, of the standard of an essay or moot performance for the purposes of awarding a mark in the subject as a whole. The subject to which this requirement applies will be chosen by the student, and all subjects offered in the Law School are prima facie available to Research Component students for this purpose. Where for compelling reason no provision for a suitable essay or moot is or can be made in a program of assessment of a particular subject, the teacher of that subject may ask the student to select another subject. There is no formal teaching in 90.743 Research Component and no credit points are awarded for it. It is compulsory for all students except those taking one or more of the Research Thesis electives (90.651, 90.652, 90.653).

90.832 Legal TheoryS1 S2 Hpw4 C3

Introduction to theoretical questions which underline the practical workings of the law. Three different though overlapping questions are addressed: questions about the nature and character of judging; questions about the nature of law; moral and evaluative questions about the operations of law in general, and about particular legal activities. Topics: the character and aims of legal theory; the nature of adjudication and its significance for an understanding of law; Legal Positivists' and Natural Lawyers' accounts of the nature of law and the relationship of law to morals; evaluation of punishment, laws designed to redistribute social goods and other areas of legal intervention into social life.

90.882 Law and Social TheoryS1 S2 Hpw4 C3

Examination of common assumptions about law, about society, and about the relationships between law, legal institutions and social ordering. The nature of social ordering and the place of law in that ordering, the extent to which different areas of law contain implicit social theories, and the importance which social theorists have attached to law in their explanations of social structure and social change. First section: Common assumptions about the nature and social role of law are discussed in the light of the work of writers in the law and society movement. Second section: The rule of law is considered as a general rationale of law and in the context of selected areas of law: contract, crime and administrative law. Third section: The work of major social theorists (Marx, Weber, Durkheim and Foucault) and the implications of their work for law are discussed.

90.832 and 90.882 form part of the compulsory core of the LLB and BJuris degree courses with respect to students who entered the Faculty in 1981 or later. Students are required to take one of these two subjects to fulfil compulsory requirements and are permitted to take the other as an elective.

Electives Prerequisites for Elective Subjects

The Faculty has decided not to impose an elaborate set of subject prerequisites and co-requisites. The Faculty in effect prefers to maintain a flexible attitude toward admission to particular subjects and to the variety of pre-law study backgrounds of its many students.

As the elective program is of its nature an advanced stage of the various courses, teachers plan their subjects and their teaching and assessment strategies on the general assumption that students entering any particular elective have completed 90.112 Legal System – Torts, 90.741 Legal Research and Writing 1, 90.161 Criminal Law, 90.141 Contracts, 90.216 Administrative Law and 90.301 Property and Equity.

Elective subjects for which specific prerequisites or co-requisites have been set are:

Subject	Prerequisite
Trial Process	Litigation
Advanced Criminal Law	Criminal Law Litigation (co-requisite)
The Law, Procedures and Practice of Parliament	Federal Constitutional Law
Succession	Property and Equity
Business Associations 2	Business Associations 1
The Law of Banking	Commercial Law B
Advanced Revenue Law	Elements of Income Tax Law

Students in any doubt about their preparedness for any particular elective subject should be certain to speak to the Sub-Dean well in advance of seeking enrolment in that subject.

* At the time of publication detailed planning for 1990 has not been completed. Students should note that it may not be possible to offer all electives as indicated. Up-to-date information is contained in re-enrolment details issued to each student at the end of 1989 and in timetables published several weeks before the academic year begins in 1990. It may be necessary to limit the numbers of students which can be taken into a particular elective.

90.102 Trial Process S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

Prerequisite: 90.101.

An advocacy training course concerned with the procedural and practical aspects of trial litigation and focusing on the role of the lawyer. Preparation of cases for trial, from initial investigation to final submission. Major emphasis is given to developing skills of interviewing, collecting facts, examining and cross-examining witnesses, and addressing judge and jury.

Begins with a series of practice exercises simulating real life litigation problems and students initially play all the courtroom roles: lawyer, witness, orderly and judge. Concludes with a series of mock trials derived from actual cases and presided over by judges and barristers. Civil, criminal and administrative law matters are covered. All exercises and trials are videoed for subsequent student viewing and critique.

90.103 Remedies S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

A study of the principal private-law remedies evolved by the common law and by equity. The course analyses the nominate remedies of Australian law by reference to the remedial goals of the legal system, namely compensation, restitution, punishment and coercion. The relationship between the various remedies is also explored, as are the ways in which remedies are enforced in practice.

90.145 Advanced Studies in Torts SS Hpw4 C3

The law of torts at an advanced level. The concepts which determine which interests are legally protected, what conduct is regarded as socially unreasonable and when a court will afford a remedy in the form of an action for damages. Emphasis on a basic grounding in areas of tort law which, although rarely included in the curricula of basic torts courses, provide an important part of the protection which the legal system affords certain vital and highly valued interests, and in addition allows students to pursue in greater detail and at a more advanced level some areas of study included in the basic torts program.

Focus on the protection of relational interests, although other matters may be discussed. Topics may include: defamation and other actionable communications, privacy, false imprisonment, malicious prosecution, negligent infliction of economic loss, intentional infliction of economic loss, survival and extinction of causes of action, products liability, nuisance.

90.148 Advanced Criminal Law SS Hpw4 C3

Prerequisite: 90.161. Co-requisite: 90.101

Builds upon the introduction to criminal law and process in the compulsory core curriculum. Examines such matters as white collar and corporate crime; gaming and betting regulation; legal pluralism and criminal responsibility; "quasi-criminal" proceedings, such as children's courts, visiting justice hearings, mental health review tribunals, habitual criminal and inebriates hearings, and selected domestic tribunals, such as sporting disciplinary bodies; codification of the criminal law and the emergence of an Australian criminal code; comparative criminal law, particularly focusing on North America and Pacific Islands developments; and current issues in criminal justice administration. Also emphasises practical legal skills, such as legislative drafting and statutory interpretation, and where practicable there may be a limited clinical component.

90.151 Family Law S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

The legislative and constitutional background to family law in Australia, the structure of the Family Court of Australia, including the place of counselling within the court, the establishment of formal family relationships including the regulation of marriage and the approach of the law to informal family relationships; adoption; state intervention into the family relationship including the withdrawal of children from parental custody and the protection of family members against violence.

The problems created by the breakdown of marriage and other family relationships require close reference to the principles established by the Family Law Act concerning divorce, custody and the settlement of financial disputes. A study of the Act includes an examination of the role of lawyers and others in the process of dissolution and reorganization of families. The subject encourages students to assess the actual impact of the law, and to work with interdisciplinary materials.

90.155 Law and Gender SS Hpw4 C3

Examines the complex role played by legal roles and practices in the construction and maintenance of inequality between women and men. Introduces students to feminist jurisprudence and significant debates within it, including the multiple meanings of 'equality' (for example, the sameness/difference debate and critiques of it); the public/private dichotomy; and the ways in which 'black letter' law inherently reflects a gendered perspective. In addition to the broad theoretical material, topics covered may include the three-part system by which women have access to financial support: viz, paid work, dependence on men, and dependence on the state; injuries to women and the ways in which women are distinctively harmed; the legal construction and regulation of women's connection with others: as lovers, wives, mothers etc; the lawyering process and legal language (is the practise of law, in particular the adversary system, the only alternative for dealing with disputes; would gender neutral legal language change a gender specific world?)

90.162 Families and Finances

SS Hpw4 C3

A foundation for legal practice and a critical examination of the operation of the legal system in a particular area. There is room for some variation in topics according to the interests of the teacher and students, but in general the topics covered are:

1. Matrimonial property and maintenance disputes concentrating on issues not explored in depth in 90.151 Family Law, eg problems of enforcement, drafting maintenance agreements, involvement of third parties in family disputes.
2. Social security arrangements in so far as they relate to the family, eg widows' pensions, supporting parents' benefits, relationship of these to Family Law Act proceedings.
3. Taxation issues, specifically related to breakdown of the family, but including some analysis of taxation policy in relation to the family.
4. Family provision (formerly 'testator's family maintenance').
5. Bankruptcy in so far as it relates to a competition between the creditors and the bankrupt's family.
6. The legal framework for the public and private support of children.
7. Superannuation arrangements affecting families.

Relationship between the systems of family law, taxation, social security and testator's family maintenance. Broader policy questions, such as those identified in the Finer Report (UK), the Hambly Report (Australia) and other studies including an analysis of community property regimes and an assessment of their suitability for Australia.

Students who have completed 90.152 Families and Finances are not permitted to take this subject for credit.

It is desirable that students have completed 90.151 Family Law.

90.163 Children and the Law

SS Hpw4 C3

Aspects of children's law not dealt with in 90.151 Family Law and aspects of practice relating to children, such as the role of children's legal representatives in children's courts and in other courts and tribunals. The present law in Australia is considered as well as the historical development of laws relating to children, proposed reforms, and comparative material from other countries. The materials draw on disciplines other than law (such as sociology, child development theory) so that legal developments can be related to the position of children in society and different perspectives on their rights and interests. The subject is intended both for students who are interested in legal practice relating to children, and those who wish to broaden their understanding of the legal system by a critical examination of how it operates in what is a controversial and rapidly changing area.

There may be some variation in the topics to be covered, according to the interests of the particular teacher and students, but in general the subject deals with guardianship and the rights and responsibilities of parents, the concept of children's rights; child welfare laws; the application of the criminal law to children and the jurisdiction and procedures in children's courts; education; foster care, and other forms of alternative care.

Students who have completed 90.153 Children and the Law are not permitted to take this subject for credit.

It is desirable that students have completed 90.151 Family Law.

90.172 Crime and Society

SS Hpw4 C3

Some of the issues arising from the relationship of crime to society. Crime as a dividing practice in the construction of normality. A critical history of traditional and current accounts of crime and delinquency. The subject is non-disciplinary and is sourced from a variety of literatures. Topics include: the dramatization of evil and the politics of social control; a short history of delinquency and its psychological and sociological explanations; theories of conformity and alienation; crime and discipline; women, crime and powerlessness; crime and the powerful; police crime and corporate crime.

90.173 The Criminal Justice System

SS Hpw4 C3

The operation and main institutions of the criminal justice system. The materials are socio-legal in orientation; they emphasise process rather than legal rules. Historical and contemporary issues are examined within their broader political context. In examining various forms of discretionary decision-making in the criminal process an attempt is made to identify practices specific to class, race and gender. Topics covered from year to year vary according to current inquiries, campaigns and controversies.

Topics: reporting crime, criminal statistics, media approaches to crime, popular cultural perspectives, the historical emergence and development of the police, police discretion, contemporary developments in policing, private and political police, deaths in custody, inquests, policing of particular groups, public order policing, criminal violence, plea bargaining, police interrogation methods and reform proposals, reform in the criminal justice system.

90.174 Penology

SS Hpw4 C3

A critical interdisciplinary subject involving historical, sociological, political and legal materials. Topics include: an examination of the field of penal practices, the origins and development of prisons; the legal regulation of prisons; attempts to litigate prisoners' rights, the NSW Prisons Act, rules and regulations; the NSW Parole of Prisoners Act and the NSW Royal Commission into Prisons. The emphasis on different topics may vary from year to year.

90.181 Law and Medicine

SS Hpw4 C3

Selected problems of a medico-legal nature presented in a way which enables the lawyer to handle legal problems of another discipline. Topics: typical medical case management both by the practitioner and hospital, problems of disability evaluation and rehabilitation, the application of forensic sciences to the settlement of disputes, the doctor as an expert witness, regulation and liability of those engaged in the health professions, public health regulation, medico-moral problems such as abortion and sterilization, legal problems of addition and issues which arise as a result of innovations in medicine such as human experimentation, transplantation and anatomical gifts.

Students who have completed 90.1812 Law and Medicine are not permitted to take this subject for credit.

90.210 The High Court of Australia SS Hpw4 C3

The role of the High Court of Australia as a legal, political and social institution in the framework of Australian government. Topics include: the relationship of the High Court to the other institutions of government; the relationship of the Court to other courts within the judicial system; the historical development of the Court and its distinctive features through different periods of that development; the Court's composition and internal working, its style of legal reasoning, its contribution to the development of distinctively Australian law in selected areas and the place of its individual members in the Australian judicial tradition. The subject is divided broadly into four parts. 1. The structure and operation of the Court; 2. the Court's role and record in public law; 3. the Court's role and record in private law; and 4. an analysis, building on the earlier part, of issues relating to the judicial process in the Court. About half of the subject is based on discussion of prepared materials, and the other half on research essays by each student presented to the class in the style of a seminar.

90.221 Advanced Administrative Law SS Hpw4 C3

Builds upon the administrative law topics covered in the compulsory part of the curriculum. Content varies from year to year because of the need to deal with contemporary problems, and a corpus of law which is ever more subject to reform both by legislation and by judicial decision-making. In some areas a comparative approach is taken to expose the many solutions possible in the search for administrative justice. The core of the subject is in the fields of judicial and tribunal review of administrative action. Particular attention (amounting to over half of the subject) is given to federal administrative law and freedom of information. Topics may also include contracts and torts of the Crown and other public authorities; ombudsmen; delegated legislation; and public corporations.

90.223 Communications Law SS Hpw4 C3

The statutory and common law controls over mass media and telecommunications in Australia. Matters likely to engage the skills of lawyers rather than pure theoretical analysis or law for journalists. Among the general legal issues considered in the particular communications context are: economic regulation and protectionism; licensing law and policy; legal provision for technological change; regulation of corporate control; and self-regulation. Topics may be roughly divided into two main groups: 1. Defamation; contempt of court and parliament; rights of court reporting; restrictions on the content of printed and electronic media, including voluntary industry codes as well as law strictly so called. 2. Electronic media: the operation of the commercial and public station licensing system; planning powers; ownership and control of stations; the regulation of programs; domestic law affecting satellite communication; videotext; cable and pay-TV media.

90.224 Mining Law SS Hpw4 C3

The framework of regulation for mining in Australia and the possible legal structures that might be used in establishing a natural resources project. The legal questions that arise in the financing of such a project. The subject focuses on New South Wales which, like other States, has extensive legislation relating to the mining industry. This entails, however, substantial treatment of federal regulation in the areas of foreign investment, export control, exchange control, Aborigines, uranium and offshore exploration and mining. Constitutional problems arising from the Federal/State relationship. The revenue, environmental and international trade aspects of minerals projects in Australia. Policy questions raised by these matters.

90.242 Local Government Law SS Hpw4 C3

Local government as a particular example of the role of government in general in providing public goods; policy questions such as the optimal size of local jurisdictions in terms of efficiency and political responsibility, and legal and administrative comparisons with specialist statutory authorities such as county councils and central government departments and corporations; the law governing formal structure of local authorities, elections, servants, meetings, control of corruption; the range of council powers and duties in providing local public goods and the rules which govern their provision by compulsory acquisition, revenue raising by rating (including land valuation), and the management of public property, introduction to councils' role in land use and environmental control through subdivision, zoning, building and public health regulation and the licensing system in this area; aspects of remedial law special to local government, actions by and against councils, with some emphasis on council liability in tort.

Students who have completed 90.2422 Local Government Law are not permitted to take this subject for credit.

90.262 Human Rights Law SS Hpw4 C3

Study of measures developed for the protection of human rights within Australia and other jurisdictions and in international law, and the growing links between Australian and international human rights law. Topics include: the promotion of human rights in historical perspective; the constitutional status of human rights in Australian law; the moral and legal effect of international instruments such as the Universal Declaration of Human Rights; the human rights provisions in the UN Charter; the 1966 Covenants (on Economic Social and Cultural Rights, and on Civil and Political Rights) and their implementation in Australia; the evolution of new international human rights conventions, principles and processes; Australian human rights legislation and the work of particular Australian agencies such as the Human Rights and Equal Opportunities Commission and State anti-discrimination bodies. Alternative strategies for encouraging compliance with human rights law including coercive measures not involving the use of armed force (such as economic sanctions), and the methods adopted in different international theories concerning human rights.

90.270 The Law, Procedures and Practice of Parliament

SS Hpw4 C3

Prerequisite: 90.215

An examination of the Australian parliamentary systems, State and Federal, and of the Acts, Regulations, Standing Orders, practices and conventions which govern: candidacy for parliament; parliamentary elections; the organization of parliamentary business; the legislative process; parliamentary privilege; contempt of parliament; the disciplinary powers of the parliament; the officers of the parliament; the offices of the parliament. A brief introduction to legislative drafting. The relationship of the UK Parliament and Australian parliaments. A brief comparison of the Westminster system and other parliamentary systems.

90.302 Advanced Property and Equity

SS Hpw4 C3

Explores in detail important equitable principles governing the creation, transfer and priority of interests in property, both real and personal. Topics include: the nature of fraud in equity; fiduciary relationships; undue influence; penalties and forfeiture. Considers equity's characteristic response to problems of injustice and unfairness as exemplified by the development, as institutions and/or remedial devices, of constructive trusts, proprietary estoppel and contractual licences. The distinction between notions of property and contract is studied particularly in relation to recent developments in the law of leases, with emphasis on the implications for commercial lessees. Covenants governing the use of land at common law and in equity are studied in relation to general law and Torrens Title land.

90.303 Trusts

S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

The nature, history and classification of trusts; the use of trusts in modern law; social control through trusts; express private trusts; purpose trusts; discretionary and protective trusts; the creation and variation of private trusts; trusts in commerce; resulting and constructive trusts; charitable and public trusts; the significance of charitable status; powers and duties of trustees.

A useful introduction to 90.305 Succession which develops a number of themes which are raised by a consideration of the law of trusts.

90.305 Succession

S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

Prerequisite: 90.301

The law governing succession to property on death including the rules relating to wills, administration of assets, family provision and intestate succession. Equitable doctrines relating to the law of wills and administration of estates, including construction of wills, marshalling, satisfaction, ademption, and donationes mortis causa. Although the rules of equity constitute a theme common to this subject and 90.302 and 90.303, there is no significant overlap. Students interested in both the law of trusts and the law of succession should do both 90.303 and 90.305; in that event it is preferable to do 90.303 first.

90.321 Conveyancing and Land Transactions

S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

The law of vendor and purchaser with special emphasis on the standard form contract of sale of land in use in New South Wales. Aims to benefit those intending to practise at the bar in the property and equity area as well as those who will be involved with conveyancing work as solicitors. Topics: whether a binding contract of sale exists, auction contracts; vendor disclosure and anti-gazumping legislation, the requirements of the Statute of Frauds, exchange of contracts, proper preparation of the contract of sale, detailed examination of the standard Law Society approved contract of sale, old system conveyancing, Strata Title conveyancing, the law concerning notices to complete and other remedies available to vendor and purchaser.

90.341 Environmental Law

SS Hpw4 C3

Statutory and common law regulation of access to, and use and management of, natural resources, and the theories and policies underlying such regulation. The focus is upon land, water and air, involving a detailed treatment of pollution and land use control, attempting to draw out the techniques (for example, licensing and standards setting) which are common to attempts at legal regulation of resources. Emphasis is on the law as it operates in practice. Students are encouraged to take an interest in ongoing environmental debates and to carry out fieldwork. Specific attention to the part played by the exercise of political and administrative discretion in this field, the tension which exists between the various levels of government and the potential role of public participation in the decision-making process.

90.401 Business Associations 1

S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

An introduction to the legal principles governing the partnership and the registered company.

The partnership component deals with the formation and constitution of the partnership; the relations between partners and those dealing with their firm; the fiduciary duties partners owe to one another; the partnership property and capital; the dissolution of the partnership.

The company law component of the subject falls into two parts. The first deals with the process and incidents of incorporation. The topics dealt with in this part include the derivation of the modern company; an introduction to the regulatory structures for companies and the securities industry in Australia; the formation of the company; the privileged position of the private company; an introduction to the corporate constitution, organs and capital; promoters' duties; pre-incorporation contracts; the separate personality of the corporation (and its exceptions); corporate liability in crime.

The balance of the subject is concerned with the structure and governance of the company. It examines the corporate organs (the board of directors and the general meeting) and the division of corporate powers between them; the duties and liabilities of directors and other officers; the remedies available to shareholders for the enforcement of directors' duties and protection against oppression or over-reaching by controllers.

While much of this company law doctrine is equally applicable to the large company as to the small enterprise, the subject stresses the problems, processes and transactions typically encountered by small incorporated business.

Students are advised to complete 90.301 Property and Equity before undertaking Business Associations 1.

90.402 Business Associations 2 S2 Hpw4 C3

Prerequisite: 90.401.

Areas of company law and securities regulation not covered in 90.401 Business Associations 1, and particularly those of relevance to larger companies. Students who wish to complete a comprehensive study of company law and securities regulation are advised to take this subject in addition to 90.401.

The subject deals with topics within the fields of corporate finance and securities regulation (including the regulation of takeovers). Topics studied will be drawn from the following: (1) corporate finance including classes of shares, company accounts and audit, the protection of share capital, and the law of dividends; (2) securities markets and their regulation including insider trading and other market abuse, and the hearing and investigative powers of the National Companies and Securities Commission; (3) public issues of corporate securities including philosophies of new issue regulation, listing and quotation, prospectus requirements, liability for prospectus contents, and prescribed interests; (4) the regulation of takeovers; (5) corporate insolvency.

90.403 The Modern Corporation SS Hpw4 C3

Examines on a comparative basis selected issues in law and social policy arising from the modern emergence of the large business corporation as a dominant institution in western economies. The object is to develop a critical understanding of corporate structures and operations and of regulatory systems.

The central theme concerns corporate control and governance. Topics include: 1. the distribution of corporate ownership and control - modern patterns and their significance; 2. institutional share ownership - recent developments and control implications; 3. the regulation of financial intermediaries; 4. networks of influence - inter-company and business-government interlocks; 5. legal responses to the separation of corporate ownership and control with particular reference to the identification and transfer of corporate control; 6. structure, process and function in the public company board of directors; 7. corporate social responsibility; 8. industrial democracy; 9. employee participation in corporate capital formation; 10. state intervention in business - industrial strategy, corporatism and managerial prerogatives; and 11. the regulation of multi-national enterprise.

Students who have completed 90.4032 The Modern Corporation are not permitted to take this subject.

90.424 Industrial and Intellectual Property S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

Areas of the law relating to concepts of intangible property including the law of patents, trademarks, trade designs, copyright, confidentiality, passing off and the protection of business reputation.

90.426 Regulation of Economic Activity SS Hpw4 C3

Theories, economics and politics of regulation. The role of competition policy; the case of exemption. Regulation v self-regulation. Regulatory reform. Selected case studies in economic regulation.

90.434 Trade Practices S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

Analyses the competitive process and the extent to which departures from competition should be regulated. Focus is put on the Trade Practices Act and the decisions of the Trade Practices Commission, the Trade Practices Tribunal and the Federal Court thereunder. Comparative US, English and EEC decisions in the trade practices area are considered.

90.435 Insurance Law SS Hpw4 C3

Basic principles of insurance law. Topics: 1. Principles of insurance law; insurable interest, indemnity, good faith, subrogation, contribution; 2. Insurance contracts: formation, warranties and conditions, cover, claims, brokers and agents; 3. The changes effected by the relevant legislation and the residual problems.

90.437 Commercial Law A S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

Aims, with 90.438 Commercial Law B, to provide an introduction to principal areas of commercial law of relevance to legal practice. Topics: 1. the law on sale of goods; 2. an introduction to consumer protection; 3. an introduction to the law on consumer credit. Students wishing to complete an introductory study of commercial law are advised to take 90.438 Commercial Law B. More advanced study of consumer protection is available in 90.439 Consumer Protection Law. Other areas of commercial law are dealt with in 90.454 International Trade and 90.480 The Law of Banking.

90.438 Commercial Law B S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

Aims, with 90.437 Commercial Law A, to provide an introduction to principal areas of commercial law of relevance to legal practice. Topics: 1. negotiable instruments, including a study of commercial bills against the background of a description of the operation of the commercial bills and money markets; 2. secured transactions. Students are introduced to the law on securities over personal property including priorities. Reference is made to credit arrangements in use in the distribution and sale of goods and services; 3. introduction to law of bankruptcy.

Students are recommended to complete 90.437 Commercial Law A before taking this subject. Students wishing to complete an introductory study of commercial law are advised to take 90.437 Commercial Law A. Other areas of commercial law are dealt with in 90.439 Consumer Protection Law, 90.454 International Trade and 90.480 The Law of Banking.

90.439 Consumer Protection Law SS Hpw4 C3

Legislative strategies for the protection of consumers and the effect of this legislation upon marketers. The following protective strategies are considered: regulation of consumer contracts; the imposition of informational requirements on persons dealing with consumers; the promulgation of standards with which goods and services have to comply; the licensing of persons dealing with consumers; the establishment of statutory funds against which consumers can claim; the creation of consumer tribunals and the establishment of consumer protection bureaux.

90.444 Elements of Income Tax Law S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

1. Introduction: the policies served by taxation with particular reference to distributional and economic objectives; the uniform tax system: the structure of the current Income Tax Assessment Act and its administration. 2. A critical analysis of the principal concepts of the law of income taxation and the taxation of capital gains and fringe benefits; the law on income and deductions as applicable to individuals; the trading stock provisions and tax accounting; concepts of residence and source. 3. The judicial interpretation of taxing statutes; policy questions concerning tax avoidance.

90.445 Advanced Revenue Law S2 Hpw4 C3

Prerequisite: 90.444.

Areas of income tax introduced in 90.444 Elements of Income Tax Law in greater depth. Several areas of income tax law and other revenue law not touched on in the earlier subject. Topics: 1. taxation of partnerships, trusts and companies; 2. assignment of income; 3. tax avoidance and evasion - analysis of general, and specific, anti-avoidance legislation and penalties legislation; 4. an introduction to aspects of international tax including some international tax agreements; 5. more specialized work on aspects of capital gains tax. 6. tax decision-making and review in the context of a mass decision making process.

Students should have completed 90.401 Business Associations 1 or be taking that course concurrently with 90.445.

90.454 International Trade SS Hpw4 C3

A study of international business transactions. An economic overview of international trade. Structural aspects of international business including: different methods of doing business internationally; foreign investment in Australia; the territorial reach of anti-trust laws; international taxation; international finance; international transport law. Attention is focused on transactional aspects of international business law, namely: sale of goods, international payments, and customs, dumping and subsidies.

It is recommended that students taking this course should either have studied, or be studying concurrently, the following subjects: Commercial Law A and B, Elements of Income Tax and Conflict of Laws.

Students who have completed 90.4512 International Trade are not permitted to take this subject for credit.

90.461 Information Systems Law SS Hpw4 C3

The law governing the use of computing and data communications technologies. The main topics are data communications law (telecommunications regulation and telecommunications interception law concerning data), data protection and privacy, property in computerized data and software, computer crime, civil liability for software and databases, evidentiary problems, and computerised commercial transactions, including electronic funds transfer systems (EFTS), EFTS at point-of-sale (EFT-POS) and programmed stock trading. The social and legal importance of 'information systems', computers interconnected by telecommunications, is examined in the light of theories of 'post industrial society' and suggestions of an emerging 'information systems law'. Computing and data communications concepts are explained where necessary. No prior computing knowledge is required, and no computer use is required during the course.

90.462 Computer Applications to Law SS Hpw4 C3

A 'hands-on' introduction to the uses lawyers can make of computer technology, particularly database and knowledge-based technologies. The use of databases for text retrieval systems, court and legal data registry systems, litigation support systems and office administration. The strengths and limitations of database technologies. The use of knowledge-based technologies in legal document generators, expert systems (systems that give legal advice) and 'conceptual text retrieval'. Implications of the nature of legal reasoning for these technologies.

Students will design and create their own legal databases, document generators and expert systems using programs provided. No prior computer knowledge is required, as the course commences with a brief introduction to microcomputer use. Some experience in the use of microcomputers, and particularly word processing, would be an advantage. The course is taught in the Faculty Microcomputer Lab and enrolment is therefore limited to 25.

90.480 The Law of Banking SS Hpw4 C3

Prerequisite: 90.438

The law and practice of domestic and international banking. Topics vary from year to year but include: the regulation of banking, particular aspects of the banker/customer relationship, modern payment systems, domestic and international financing.

90.500 The Law of Employment S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

A branch of the law which treats persons in their capacity as workers. The employer-employee relationship with particular attention to the individual contract of employment on which that relationship rests, the legal concept of a 'worker', incidents of the employment relationship, the mutual rights and duties of the employer and the employee; the rights and obligations of public employees; incidents of the employment relationship as regards third parties, the employer's liability to third parties, the employee's liability to third parties and the liability of third parties towards the employment relationship; the termination of the relationship with particular reference to the discharge of the contract of employment by performance, by notice and for cause and the remedies for wrongful termination; the relationship between an individual contract of employment and the relevant Award or Industrial Agreement, the usual matters dealt with in Awards and Agreements with particular emphasis on job security and personal grievances; social security aspects of employment, the legislation which is designed to protect wages, hours and various leave entitlements; legislation with respect to Anti-Discrimination; programs for Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action.

90.502 Industrial Safety and Health Law S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

The law relating to compensation for work-related injuries and disabilities and to the regulation of safety standards in industry and of the processes and substances employed therein. Topics include: the employer's common law duty of care; the common law duty of care of manufacturers of products for use at work; the development and application of workers' compensation schemes; comprehensive no-fault compensation schemes and inquiries relating thereto in their application to industrial injuries and disabilities; existing protective legislation in Australia; a comparative survey of protective legislation in other countries and its effectiveness; individual rights under protective legislation; regulation of industrial safety and health under compulsory arbitration schemes; management and union initiatives in the fields of industrial safety and health; new problems in industrial safety and health.

90.503 Industrial Law SS Hpw4 C3

Analysis of the legislation, commonwealth and state, which regulates the activities of trade and industrial unions including their internal administration; the common law relevant to trade unions and industrial disputes; the legislation, commonwealth and state, governing the conduct of industrial disputes; practical aspects of dispute settlement in Australian industrial relations systems.

90.601 Law Journal C3

A student may be deemed, on the recommendation of the Dean and the Faculty Advisers to the Law Journal, to have satisfactorily completed this course on the basis of work done as an editor of the University of New South Wales Law Journal.

90.641 Legal History SS Hpw4 C3

The theme of this subject is the rule of law. It examines the role played by law and legal institutions in the division of political power, and falls into three parts: 1. the struggles between the courts, the parliament and the monarchy in seventeenth century England, with special attention to the conflict between Sir Edward Coke and James I, the English Civil War and the Glorious Revolution; 2. the political consolidations of eighteenth century England with special attention to Blackstone, as well as to the assessments of modern historians like E.P. Thompson and Douglas Hay; 3. the reception of legal ideas into the penal colony of New South Wales. The role played by rule of law in the political formation of a new society.

90.651 Research Thesis: two-session elective * C690.652 Research Thesis: one-session elective * S1 C3*90.653 Research Thesis: one-session elective * S2 C3

A Research Thesis project shall be approved by the School of Law if: 1. a clearly defined project is presented; a thesis topic may be approved initially or at some subsequent stage. In the case of a group project a statement on the proposed division of work between members of the group must also be approved. 2. the student has an academic background in legal study sufficient to handle the subject matter of the thesis in an adequate manner (an average mark of 65 percent in previous Law subjects is normally required). 3. adequate supervision is available; supervision may be conjoint but at least one supervisor must be a full-time member of academic staff.

The School of Law may approve a Research Thesis but will initially limit its approval to a 3 credit point project. A student who has received approval for a 3 credit point project may be given subsequent approval to have his or her project transferred to a 6 credit point project (90.651). Similarly a student who has received approval for a 6 credit point project (90.651) may be given retrospective approval for transfer to a 3 credit point project.

Thesis

The thesis must be typed on A4 bond paper and two copies must be prepared in a cover (spring back folder or bound). References may appear at the foot of each page or at the end of each chapter. As a general rule the thesis shall be a maximum of 12,000 words for a one session project or 20,000 words for a two session project.

Examination

Two examiners, one of whom may be the supervisor, shall be appointed for each thesis by the School of Law. The final date for submission of the thesis shall be the last day of session for which the candidate is registered for the thesis or such other date as the examiners may agree.

Examiners may require a candidate or group of candidates to attend an oral examination on the subject matter of the thesis; examiners may require a thesis to be re-submitted under such conditions as the examiners may determine.

* These electives permit selected students to obtain credit for approved research projects undertaken individually or in groups. No student shall be permitted to obtain more than 6 credit points in any combination of the subjects 90.651, 90.652, 90.653.

90.682 Social Security Law SS Hpw4 C3

The role of the state in the provision of community resources, in particular in the redistribution of taxation revenue through the income maintenance system, and the role of law in the redistribution process. The major focus is an examination of the law, policy and practices of the Australian Social Security system. Other matters covered include: an examination of the causes and extent of poverty in Australia; the role of the state in the alleviation of poverty; the relationship between the Social Security Act 1947 (Cth) and other Commonwealth and State laws, such as the Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 (Cth); the Family Law Act 1975 (Cth) and common law and statutory compensation systems; the role of law in effecting social change in general and redistribution in particular.

90.683 Housing Law SS Hpw4 C3

Tenancy law, practice, procedure and tactics, with emphasis on the position of the occupier of residential premises. Housing policies, provision of government housing with special attention to disadvantaged persons. Practical problems and ways and means to take advantage of resources offered by government departments. Alternatives to traditional housing organizations and tenancy law reform.

90.691 Discrimination and the Law

SS Hpw4 C3

Discrimination in its legal, social, economic and political aspects. The philosophical foundations of anti-discrimination policies, discriminatory patterns in society, and the way the law helps to perpetuate such patterns. Legal mechanisms and agencies, particularly those in Australia, which seek to end or control discrimination, and in particular the principles and doctrines which are applicable in this area of law, with attention to the relevance of statistics as a means of proving discrimination in actions seeking private remedies and in the design and management of general administrative programs for affirmative action. For purposes of illustration, discrimination on the ground of sex is stressed, but other grounds are also considered (race, age, sexual preference, marital status, religion, political opinion, family status, national origin, intellectual and physical handicap, colour).

90.692 Aborigines and the Law

SS Hpw4 C3

Legal issues that have particular application to Aboriginal people. Topics include: questions of definition and identity, sovereignty, land rights, legislative power, recognition of customary law, criminal justice issues, Aboriginal legal aid, the use of civil law, aspects of anti-discrimination and human rights legislation, relevant principles and procedures in international law, and proposals for a Treaty. Reference is made to comparative law materials from comparable countries such as Canada, USA, New Zealand. Reference is also made to anthropological and other non-legal material.

90.721 Clinical Legal Experience

S1 S2 Hpw8 C3

Clinical legal education takes students out of the classroom and places them in a law practice. Students are required to attend the Faculty's clinic, the Kingsford Legal Centre, one day or two half days per week, where they participate in the lawyer/client relationship under the close supervision of experienced practitioners. Students gain experience and teaching in such matters as the interviewing and counselling of clients, the factual investigations necessary in litigation, interviewing of witnesses, drafting pleadings and other documents, preparation for trial, the negotiation of agreements and settlements, and the conduct of a trial.

As well as attendance at the Kingsford Legal Centre the subject involves classroom teaching in which the work undertaken by students for particular clients is discussed and analysed and an introduction given to many basic skills and areas of practice and to the pressures and responsibilities of legal practice. An opportunity is also given to assess the adequacy of the law as an instrument of social control.

The subject is offered in both teaching sessions and over the summer vacation.

90.820 Economic Analysis of Law

SS Hpw4 C3

The use of concepts of economics as a means of evaluating the appropriateness of legal rules. The concepts drawn from microeconomic theory and public economics (dealt with at a comparatively elementary level) are used to analyse existing and hypothetical legal rules within selected areas of law, such as property, tort, contract, constitutional law, environmental law, trade practices and business regulation, consumer protection and crime. Prior training in economics is not essential for students taking the course.

Students who have completed 90.8202 Economic Analysis of Law are not permitted to take this subject for credit.

90.832 Legal Theory

S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

For details, see 90.832 Legal Theory earlier in this section.

90.841 Comparative Law

SS Hpw4 C3

Some of the principal legal systems of the world, and the advantages in looking at legal problems from a perspective broader than that of one's own legal system. Three parts: 1. an introduction to the Modern Civil Law, Roman, Hindu, Islamic and Marxist legal systems, wherever possible comparing them with the Common Law system, and with each other. The history and uses of Comparative Law, and a discussion of the manner in which the Civil Law and Common Law systems have interacted with the others, and with each other; 2. a more detailed study of the Civil Law system, through the medium of criminal law and administrative law in Europe, especially France, against the background of the common law; 3. student-led seminars examining, comparatively, topics of world-wide concern, eg consumer protection, the role of the corporation in modern society, protection of civil liberties, judicial review of administration action, and environmental protection.

90.842 Pacific Islands Legal Systems

SS Hpw4 C3

Change, conflict and continuity in indigenous legal systems of the Pacific Islands (as well as other parts of the Third World) against the background of colonialism, 'modernization', and economic underdevelopment. Particular nations looked at include Papua New Guinea, Fiji, Vanuatu, the Solomon Islands, New Caledonia, French Polynesia, Western Samoa, Tonga, Kiribati, the Federated States of Micronesia, Belau and the Marshall Islands. Topics include: the political status of Pacific Island entities and their constitutional development; theories relating to legal 'development'; the role of law courts and the legal profession in changing society; the nature of traditional society, colonialism, and social and economic change; the nature of customary law and dispute settlement and its integration with imported Western law and legal institutions; changing family law, land law and notions of criminal responsibility; theories of economic underdevelopment; international law problems facing Pacific Island nations; issues of ideology and gender. By developing an appreciation of the theoretical and practical problems arising from the attempted imposition, or adoption, of Western legal concepts and institutions in non Western countries, it is hoped that students will develop a more flexible, enquiring and critical attitude towards the legal institutions of their own society.

90.853 Public International Law

SS Hpw4 C3

Principles of public international law. The nature and sources of international law, the relationship between international law and domestic law, international agreements, territorial and maritime jurisdiction, recognition of states and governments, immunities, international litigation, the use of force, and the role of the United Nations in international law.

Students who have completed 90.851 International Law 1 are not permitted to take this subject for credit.

90.857 International Humanitarian Law SS Hpw4 C3

The inter-relationship and operation of certain provisions of international human rights and the humanitarian laws of war and the existing international law relating to the protection of refugees and displaced persons. In these rapidly evolving areas of international law and practice, a rare opportunity is provided to study law in the making.

Laws of War topics: the four 1949 Geneva Conventions and their historical antecedents; the role of the Red Cross; the protecting powers system; problems of enforcement of humanitarian law; extension of humanitarian law to guerilla warfare; 1977 Protocols additional to the Geneva Convention; manufacture, stockpiling and employment of chemical, bacteriological and biological weapons; the role of the UN, relationship to military law in Australia. Refugee topics: the history of refugee law; problems of definition and eligibility status; admission and asylum; expulsion and non-refoulement; the role of the UNHCR; rescue of refugees at sea; principles of international solidarity and burden-sharing and the large-scale influx of refugees; comparative approaches of ASEAN countries; the OAU and Europe: Australian immigration law.

Students who have completed 90.8572 International Humanitarian Law are not permitted to take this subject for credit.

90.861 Conflict of Laws SS Hpw4 C3

The Conflict of Laws or Private International Law is a species of private law which deals with problems involving a foreign or an interstate element. The introduction of that foreign or interstate element necessitates an examination by a New South Wales court of three main issues: 1. Whether or not the court has jurisdiction to deal with the problem, and even if it does, whether or not it will assume jurisdiction. 2. If it has assumed jurisdiction the court must then ask itself what is the most appropriate law to apply to the problem before it. 3. Or, the court may have to decide whether or not to recognize and enforce a judgment of a foreign court or the court of another state. Those problems which involve interstate elements may be affected by provisions of the Commonwealth Constitution or by some federal legislation. Failing that, the solution to these interstate problems may call for an approach that is different to the solution of international problems simply on the basis that we are dealing with States of the same Commonwealth.

For the purposes of this subject the solutions that courts and legislatures have offered to such problems are examined in a few selected areas such as family law, contracts, torts and property. Wherever possible, emphasis is placed on the development of more appropriate solutions to these problems.

90.882 Law and Social Theory S1 S2 Hpw4 C3

For details, see 90.882 Law and Social Theory earlier in this section.

90.900 Special Elective A C3

90.901 Special Elective B C3

Designed especially to enable visiting teachers with special interests in teaching or research to teach subjects not normally available in the elective program.

Undergraduate Study

Rules for Award of Degrees

Rules Applicable to Candidates for the Degrees of Bachelor of Laws and Bachelor of Jurisprudence

1. (1) The Bachelor of Laws degree may be conferred on the completion of any of the following courses:

(a) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Jurisprudence and Bachelor of Laws;

(b) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Commerce and Bachelor of Laws;

(c) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Economics and Bachelor of Laws;

(d) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws;

(e) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Laws;

(f) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Social Work and Bachelor of Laws;

(g) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Social Science and Bachelor of Laws;

(h) a course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

(2) The courses set out in paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f) and (g) of subrule (1) hereof are referred to in these rules as 'combined courses', and shall be courses of full-time study of not less than five years' duration. *

3) The course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws (otherwise than as part of a combined course) shall be either:

(a) a course of part-time and/or external study which (unless otherwise approved by the Faculty for special reasons) shall be of not less than six years' duration; or

* A candidate in a combined course who desires to enrol in an Arts, Social Science, Commerce or Science degree with

be of not less than six years' duration; or

(b) a course of full-time study of not less than three years' duration, but no student shall be eligible to enrol in such course unless he or she is a graduate or graduand of any Faculty of the University or another university approved by the Faculty, or has other qualifications or experience deemed acceptable by the Faculty.

2. No person shall be permitted to enrol in any subject in the Faculty of Law at the same time as he or she is enrolled for any other degree or diploma in the University or elsewhere, except as may be necessary to complete the requirements of a combined course, or with the approval of the Faculty.

3. Where, in these Rules, reference is made to the requirement that a candidate shall complete a subject, the requirement shall be construed as meaning that the candidate shall:

(1) attend such lectures, seminars, tutorials or other classes, and such court sessions, offices or institutions as may be prescribed in that subject, and maintain a satisfactory standard of preparation for and participation in such classes and activities;

(2) perform satisfactorily in such exercises, essays, theses and other work (whether written, oral or practical) as may be prescribed in that subject and undertake any prescribed reading related to that subject; and

(3) attain a satisfactory standard in the examination or examinations, and such other means of assessment of a candidate's results in that subject as the Faculty may prescribe.

4. The Faculty of Law shall specify a number of credit points in respect of each Law subject for which credit is given in the award of the degree of Bachelor of Jurisprudence or the degree of Bachelor of Laws (whether taken separately or as part of a combined course). On completion of the subject, a candidate shall be credited with the specified number of points.

5. (1) In the case of the Bachelor of Laws degree course credit shall be given for the subjects set out in the following table, each of which shall, unless otherwise determined by the

Law

Faculty, carry the number of credit points (if any) specified opposite it.

and

Any other subject specified by the Faculty.

(2) Such subjects shall be taken in a sequence approved by the Faculty.

6. A candidate for the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws (whether taken as part of a combined course or as a separate degree) shall complete:

(1) all of the subjects prescribed in Rule 5. under the heading 'Compulsory Subjects',

(2) selected subjects from the subjects prescribed in Rule 5. under the heading 'Elective Subjects' so as to comply with Rule 7.

(3) such Legal Research and Writing Programs, Prescribed Readings in Law, Moot Court Work and other work as the Faculty may require.

7. (1) A candidate for the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws shall complete Elective Subjects prescribed in Rule 6. to the extent necessary to bring his or her total credit points for Compulsory and Elective Subjects to:

(a) in the case of a candidate for the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Arts/Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Social Science/Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Science/Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Social Work/Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Commerce/Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Economics/Bachelor of Laws.

...81

(b) in the case of a candidate for the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Jurisprudence/Bachelor of Laws.

...93

(c) in the case of a part-time candidate for the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree and a full-time candidate for the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree for graduates.

...75

† Students who commenced the law course before 1984 should consult the Sub-Dean or the Administrative Officer to confirm the compulsory subjects which apply to them.

‡ The list is the complete list of all approved electives. The number of students that may take a particular elective may be limited

(d) in the case of a part-time candidate for the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree and a full-time candidate for the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree who may have received standing for law subjects taken as part of a degree course other than BJuris or LLB degree course taken at this or another approved university.

...81

(e) in the case of a part-time candidate for the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree and a full-time candidate for the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree who may have received standing for a law subject taken as part of a BJuris degree course taken at this or another approved university.

...93

(2) A candidate's choice of Elective Subjects shall require the approval of the Faculty.

(3) In the case of a candidate for the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Commerce (Accounting) and Bachelor of Laws, electives shall (unless specially approved in an exceptional case by the Head of the School of Accounting) include Business Associations 1 and 2 and at least two other electives in the field of business law from a list approved each year formulated by the Head of the School of Accounting in consultation with the Dean of the Faculty of Law.

(4) In the case of a candidate for the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Commerce (Finance) and Bachelor of Laws, electives shall (unless specially approved in an exceptional case by the Head of the School of Law) include Business Associations 1 and 2 and Commercial Law A and B and Trusts.

8. A candidate for the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws as part of a combined course shall not be eligible to be awarded that degree until he or she has completed the additional requirements applicable to the other degree in such combined course.

9. In the case of the combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Jurisprudence and Bachelor of Laws, the requirement for the award of the Bachelor of Jurisprudence degree shall be that, in addition to completing all requirements of the Bachelor of Laws degree course (including Law subjects totalling not less than 93 credit points), the candidate has completed subjects in another Faculty or Faculties comprising unless specially approved by the Faculty a major sequence of three years' study plus one first year subject. Unless he or she obtains special permission from the relevant Head of School, a student shall be bound by any requirements as to subject prerequisites normally applicable to a subject in another Faculty.

A candidate shall obtain the approval of the Faculty of Law to his or her selection of subjects in other Faculties, and to the order in which he or she studies them. In approving such subjects, the Faculty shall have regard to the contribution the study of such subjects may reasonably be expected to make to the development of his or her capacity as a lawyer and understanding of the law.

10. The requirement for the award of the Bachelor of Jurisprudence degree shall be that the candidate has completed a course of full-time study of not less than three years' duration consisting of:

(1) Law subjects totalling not less than 45 credit points and including 90.112 Legal System – Torts, 90.741 Legal Research and Writing 1, 90.161 Criminal Law, 90.216

Administrative Law, 90.141 Contracts, 90.742 Legal Research and Writing 2, 90.743 Research Component and one of either 90.832 Legal Theory or 90.882 Law and Social Theory; †

(2) Subjects in another Faculty or Faculties comprising, unless otherwise approved by the Faculty, a major sequence of three years' study plus one first year subject.

A candidate shall obtain the approval of the Faculty of Law to his or her selection of subjects, and to the order in which he or she studies them. In approving such subjects, the Faculty shall have regard to the object of providing an integrated program of legal and non-legal studies.

11. A student shall not be enrolled as a part-time student unless he or she satisfies the Faculty that his or her special circumstances preclude full-time study, and that his or her previous experience and/or study make it appropriate to admit him or her to part-time study for the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws as a separate degree.

12. In these Rules, unless the contrary is indicated, 'the Faculty' means the Faculty of Law.

† Students who commenced the law course before 1984 should consult the Sub-Dean or Administrative Officer to confirm the compulsory subjects which apply to them.

Graduate Study

The University provides facilities for approved students to engage in advanced studies and research in Law leading to the award of higher degrees.

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy is available in the Faculty of Law (course 1730); this requires the completion of a program of research over a period of at least three years' full-time study and the preparation of a thesis.

Research may also be undertaken by approved students for the degree of Master of Laws (Course 2440). An LLM degree by course work (Course 9200) commenced in 1989.

The conditions for the award of the PhD degree, the LLM degree by research, and the LLM degree by course work, and full details of graduate scholarships available are set out below in the section Conditions for the Award of Higher Degrees.

Master of Laws Degree By Course Work

9200 Master of Laws

LLM

The Master of Laws by formal course work offers graduates an opportunity to study in an organised fashion areas of specialty and greater difficulty than could be handled in a Bachelor of Laws course, and some which call for advanced interdisciplinary perspectives.

Subjects offered in the LLM by course work program combine a degree of sophistication or technical difficulty in terms of legal content with a substantial consideration of relevant interdisciplinary aspects of the subject matter and a focus on policy. Each subject contains a significant research component.

The LLM by course work may be taken full-time in one year or part-time in a minimum of two years. Students shall undertake and satisfactorily complete four year-long subjects, or the equivalent in session-long (single semester) subjects which may be taken in combination with year-long subjects. All subjects will not necessarily be available in any one year. LLM subjects will normally be taught in the evening. Most subjects will be taught in relatively small discussion classes meeting for two hours once a week.

A student may apply to the Head of School to complete a research thesis of about 25,000 words in place of one year-long subject, or one or two research theses of about 12,500 words each in place of one session-long subject.

A student may apply to the Higher Degree Committee of Faculty for permission to take, as appropriate to his or her overall program, one LLM subject offered by another University and/or one LLB subject offered by the Faculty. Such subjects may be year-long or the equivalent in session-long subjects. A decision to permit a student to take such a subject may specify particular requirements of assessment and/or achievement in the subject.

Graduate Enrolment Procedures

All students enrolling in graduate courses should obtain a copy of the free leaflet Re-Enrolling 1990 for Postgraduate Students available from School Offices and the Admissions Office. This leaflet provides detailed information on enrolment procedures and fees, enrolment timetables by Faculty and course, enrolment in miscellaneous subjects, locations and hours of Cashiers and late enrolments.

Graduate Study Subject Descriptions

90.105G Issues in Evidence

SS Hpw 2

The course is designed for postgraduate students who have either formally studied an undergraduate evidence course, or who have professional experience in the area. The course commences with a study of the role of the lawyer in the 'making of a case' at the pre-trial stage in civil and criminal litigation. This involves an examination of how the dynamics of the courtroom presentation of a case are affected by pre-trial activities. The remainder of the course involves analyses of courtroom activities, in particular: (1) studying witness credibility and jury impact issues, drawing on US, UK and Australian studies and the role of technology in presenting information and jury impact. (2) categories of unreliable evidence. (3) the accused in court: the role of prejudicial prosecution evidence and the accused's formal protections: e.g. character evidence; confessions.

Finally, by focussing on transcripts and critiques of two or three actual trials the various course themes are brought together in an advocacy setting.

90.106G Law of Damages

SS Hpw 2

An advanced analysis of theoretical and practical issues in the law of damages. The subject builds on an assumed knowledge of the general rules of damages in two ways: (1) Theoretically, by an examination of the rules in the light of contemporary historical and jurisprudential analysis. Of particular relevance will be economic analysis and comparative law. (2) Practically, by an examination of the rules in a procedural context.

The subject will focus on current issues and problems but three constant themes will run through the subject: (1) Doctrinal issues (e.g. causation, remoteness); (2) Heads of damages (e.g. loss of money, injury to reputation); (3) Procedural consideration.

90.160G Families: Property Adjustment and Financial Transactions

SS Hpw 2

This subject provides a critical examination of a set of linked areas of law associated with family property adjustment and financial transactions. Although there may be some variations from year to year, topics will normally comprise: (1) Law, procedure and practice relating to property adjustment under the Family Law Act 1975 (C'wealth) and under the De Facto Relationships Act 1984 (NSW); (2) The law of maintenance agreements (Family Law Act) and separation and cohabitation agreements (De Facto Relationships Act); (3) Family law aspects of social security; (4) Family law aspects of bankruptcy; (5) Family law aspects of family provision (TFM); (6) Family law aspects of taxation.

The treatment will emphasise the interaction of different areas of law, and the significance of this interaction both for practice and for an understanding of the policies involved. Classes will include an examination of case studies drawn from legal practice, and experienced family law practitioners may participate in some classes. Students will be expected to have copies of the relevant legislation, but issued materials will contain extracts from reported cases and secondary materials, such as the Australian Law Reform Commission's Report Matrimonial Property, and journal articles.

There are no prerequisites, but it is highly desirable that students should have either studied or practised in family law.

90.170G Sentencing: Law, Policy and Practice F Hpw 2

An examination of the law, practice and policy relating to the sentencing process with reference to the decision to prosecute; the sentencing hearing; available sanctions; choice of sanction rules and the administration of punishment.

Topics may include: Theories of punishment; outline of the legal framework for sentencing in Australia. Information systems, public opinion, media treatment. The sentencing process; the role of discretion, impact of the prosecution process on sentencing outcomes, pre-trial procedures, victims and the criminal justice system, the approach of the courts to sentencing goals, appeals against sentence. Sentencing options; capital punishment and corporal punishment, imprisonment, fines and other unsupervised non-custodial options, supervised non-custodial options, ancillary orders, experimental options, mandatory penalties. Release from custody: the development of parole, models of parole, release on licence, other forms of release from custody, remissions. Enforcement of sentencing options. Administration of the sentence. Special categories of offenders; Aboriginal offenders, sentencing options for corporate offenders, female offenders, mentally disordered offenders, young offenders, habitual offenders, drug offenders. Reform.

90.171G Community Corrections

SS Hpw 2

At any one time in Australia three forms of community corrections – probation, parole and community service orders involve three times as many people as those in prison. The percentage of people under some form of community supervision is steadily increasing. A large number of legal and social issues and implications arise from these tendencies and insufficient attention has been devoted to them. In addition there are even newer developments such as home detention based on forms of electronic monitoring, the privatisation of penal practices happening in the U.S.A., the development of a range of specialist 'diversionary' schemes both pre and post trial. This subject will examine these important issues.

Topics include: the development of community corrections, community corrections as social control. Analysis of the legal foundation and operation of a range of specialist diversionary schemes such as juvenile cautioning, child sexual assault diversion programs, crisis intervention, drug counselling and rehabilitation schemes. An examination of the agencies gathering information used in determining eligibility for such schemes. Probation, community service orders, parole, parole supervision. Release on licence provisions, the operation of Section 29 of the Prisons Act. The proliferation of halfway houses and hostels, legal structure, financial responsibility, conditions of residence, forms of supervision, legal and ethical issues, evaluation. The legal, social and ethical issues surrounding the development of home detention schemes and forms of electronic monitoring of people on conditional release. The development in the U.S.A. of extensive privatisation of corrective functions and personnel, Australian tendencies. Examination of reform directions.

90.175G Crime Prevention Policy

SS Hpw 2

Crime prevention policy has traditionally been regarded as synonymous with the operations of the criminal justice system. Clearly the operations of the major criminal justice agencies – the police, courts and prisons – are an important part of the response to crime. However, research shows that these agencies have a very limited effect on the incidence of crime. This is hardly surprising when we consider that the causes of criminal offending lie in economic, social and cultural factors which by and large lie outside the criminal justice system. It is therefore imperative to develop approaches to crime prevention which focus on a broad range of areas and social agencies outside the traditionally defined criminal justice system. The emphasis should be on the attempt to link these various areas and to develop crime prevention policy.

Topics include: The nature of crime prevention policy. Forms of victimisation – gender, age, race and class aspects. Community policing strategies, eg Neighbourhood Watch. The private security industry. Crime prevention aspects of the contract of insurance, security conditions and their evaluation. Crime prevention in the planning, design and construction of public housing; the concept of 'defensible space'; the role of tenants organisations; the provision of security hardware and insurance. Crime problems on public transport. Town planning and the development of crime impact statements. Crime prevention impact of employment programs, especially youth programs. Crime prevention impact of child care policies and services, community arts policies, neighbourhood crime prevention committees, refuges, educational facilities. Crime control effects of liquor licensing and drug prohibition.

90.176G The 'New' Prosecutors

SS Hpw 2

There have been dramatic changes in the prosecutorial arena in recent years. To the traditional (police) prosecuting agencies have been added federal and state DPPs, the NCA, the ICAC, specialist Task Forces, specialist prosecution units in specific offence areas, numerous Royal Commissions, among others. In addition to the proliferation in prosecution agencies a range of new investigative and prosecutorial techniques and practices have emerged. These in turn have generated a range of legal, social and ethical issues around questions of independence, accountability and control.

Proposed topics include: the emergence of the 'new' prosecutors and key themes in their evaluation; the legal constitution and operation of a number of agencies such as DPPs, NCA and ICAC; an analysis of some investigative and prosecutorial techniques and practices, such as witness immunities, phone tapping, electronic surveillance, assets forfeiture etc.

90.177G Juvenile Justice

SS Hpw 2

Juvenile delinquency has emerged in recent years as an important political issue. The various agencies and practices of the criminal justice system as they apply to juveniles are sufficiently distinctive to warrant special examination. Specific policing schemes are in operation such as juvenile cautioning. There are specific legal requirements in relation to police interrogation of juveniles. The Children's Court although broadly assimilated into the Local Court system has various distinctive features. Welfare-based intervention is more extensive. There are specific issues and problems in the juvenile corrections area. An increasing number of lawyers, social and youth workers and policy advisors are working in the juvenile justice area.

Topics include: historical aspects of juvenile delinquency, the 'child-saving' movement, patterns of juvenile offending, policing, children as victims, children as complainants and witnesses, police interrogation practices and cautioning schemes, the Children's Court, juvenile advocacy, juvenile institutions, community correctional programs, specialist youth services, issues and problems in reform.

90.220G Electronic Communications Law F Hpw 2

Advanced treatment of laws governing electronic communications, including telecommunications and broadcasting.

Topics include: Licensing of telecommunications and broadcasting facilities and services. Radio communications, cable, pay-TV and quasi-broadcast regulation. Statutory monopolies and oligopolies. Restrictions on group ownership and control in broadcasting. Legal preferences for local production. Charters and responsibilities of statutory authorities such as the ABC, Austel, Telecom and the SBS. Consultative and adjudicatory mechanisms for making decisions including: litigation, public inquiries, self-regulation and statutory obligations to consult.

Because of the international character of communications developments, the course will include considerable overseas material, especially from North America and the EEC countries. It will examine the functions and regulations of the International Telecommunications Union.

The Communications Law Centre is associated with the Law School. Through its national charter and large list of projects, the Centre will provide the opportunity for clinical work by students as part of the subject.

90.225G Media Law F Hpw 2

Advanced treatment of laws imposing restrictions upon publication irrespective of the mode of publication (broadcasting, newspapers, books etc). This will include discussion of practical aspects, and of basic policy questions, notably the balancing of freedom of expression against opposing considerations such as preservation of individual reputation, the right to a fair trial, national security etc. Where appropriate, material from constitutional law, comparative law and international law will be included, and proposals for reform will be discussed. Topics include: Defamation, civil and criminal; contempt of court and of parliament; reporting of legal and parliamentary proceedings; breach of confidence; disclosure of official secrets; sedition; obscenity; vilification on racial, religious or sexual grounds.

The Communications Law Centre is associated with the Law School. Through its national charter and large list of projects, the Centre may be able to provide the opportunity for clinical work by students as part of the subject.

90.240G Comparative Constitutional Law F Hpw 2

Prerequisite: 90.215 or equivalent.

Examines and compares the operation of major institutions and doctrines of constitutional law in Australia, the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, India and elsewhere. Differences and similarities are noted and assessed. Topics include: Review of legislative and executive action; the role of the judiciary; federalism and devolution; national-regional financial relations; relations between legislature and executive; civil liberties; emergency powers; constitutional reform.

90.340G Environmental Law and Policy F Hpw 2

This subject examines environmental law in Australia in a policy setting. 'Environmental' law refers to all relevant regulatory frameworks including statutory and common law, administrative arrangements and international law and institutions. The primary focus will be the NSW context, but environmental issues of a global and regional nature will also be addressed. The law will be examined in an inter-disciplinary way, referring to economic, sociological, historical and philosophical analysis, and reference will also be made to comparative environmental law. Particular topics of a conceptual kind would include: how environmental problems are defined and what form they take; competing values (e.g. anthropocentric versus ecocentric perspectives) and how such values are articulated (through, e.g., public participation) in order to develop public policy responses to environmental problems; and theoretical aspects of policy development and evaluation, referring to cost-benefit analysis and risk assessment, spillover effects, the nature of public goods, and issues of justice in the distribution of environmental costs and benefits. Consideration of legal techniques for giving effect to environmental policies would cover such matters as: property law, including private and common property rights, conservation covenants, heritage agreements; tort law; forward planning and the plan-making process; project control; environmental impact assessment; pollution control; self-regulatory measures; and issues of enforcement. Alternatives to legal regulation for the achievement of environmental policy will also be considered.

90.420G Issues in Intellectual Property SS Hpw 2

Prerequisite: The subject follows on from undergraduate studies of intellectual property and pursues in depth issues which assume an understanding of the bases of protection for ideas.

Topics include: Performers' rights, moral rights, the role of copyright in a technological society, administrative aspects of copyright, the operation of compulsory licensing schemes, patenting of biologically engineered 'inventions', protection of computer technology, counterfeiting, emerging trends in theories of the jurisdictional basis of protection of confidence.

90.421G Technology Transfer: International Intellectual Property Transactions SS Hpw 2

This subject examines the legal framework within which technologies are transferred between countries, emphasising the technology/development debate. There will be a focus on technology transfer between countries of the Asia-Pacific region (including China, Japan, Australia and the USA), and students will have the opportunity to concentrate on the technology transfer problems of one country in the region. Topics include: the role of technology transfer in economic development; the role of intellectual property in technology transfer; the patent system and international patent documentation; copyright, encouragement of indigenous creativity, and the free flow of information; trademarks and competition in developing countries; the functions and effects of international organisations (including WIPO, GATT and UNCTAD) and intellectual property conventions (e.g. renegotiation of the Paris Convention); the UNCTAD Draft Code for the International Transfer of Technology; export of dangerous technologies; biotechnology and the Third World; domestic controls on technology exports; the recognition and enforcement of foreign intellectual property under national laws; and comparisons with European regional developments

(e.g. European Patent Office, EC directives). The drafting of international licence agreements is not covered in this course.

90.430G Corporate Control Transactions SS Hpw 2

Prerequisite: 90.401 Business Associations 1 or equivalent.

The subject explores the concept of corporate control through a study of the legal doctrines defining control and affecting its exercise, and of the regulation of transactions touching its acquisition and transfer. The Companies (Acquisition of Shares) Act is at the centre of this study. Other topics to be studied will be drawn from the following (although further topics may be added to reflect current developments): the allocation of control through consensual devices (shareholder agreements, voting trusts etc.); the exercise of control through shareholder meetings; disclosure of substantial shareholdings and beneficial ownership generally; defensive measures in contests for corporate control; structural changes arising from corporate mergers, reconstructions and buy-outs; control within unincorporated investment structures (with particular reference to unit trusts).

90.431G Securities Regulation SS Hpw 2

Prerequisite: 90.401 Business Associations 1 or equivalent.

The subject examines the structure and regulation of new issue and secondary markets for corporate securities and for related financial interests such as prescribed interests and futures contracts. Anticipated topics for study include the theory and development of securities markets; internationalisation of securities markets and its consequences; co-regulatory structure for Australian securities markets including securities commission and stock exchange powers over securities markets and related administrative law remedies; continuing corporate disclosure obligations; new issue regulation including prospectus content, promotion and liabilities; offerings of prescribed interests; controls upon market manipulation and insider trading; securities market licensing; conduct of securities business; regulation of the futures industry.

90.432G Commercial Finance SS Hpw 2

Prerequisites: 90.401 Business Associations 1 and 90.438 Commercial Law B or equivalents.

The subject examines law and practice concerning the provision of finance for commercial enterprise. The subject deals with central topics in commercial and corporate finance law by reference to the typical forms and processes of financing transactions. The subject adverts, where appropriate, to other legal doctrines (e.g. revenue law) and to extra-legal considerations affecting financing decisions and the documentation in which they are expressed. Topics to be studied will be drawn from the following (although other topics may be added to reflect current developments): the range of commercial financing instruments and considerations affecting the choice between them; banking regulation, law and practice as it affects commercial financing; the law regulating security interests including the nature and priority of company charges and debenture trust deeds; other aspects of debt finance including loan syndication, subordination, negative pledges and use of international debt markets; equity financing including preference capital, dividend and stapled stock arrangements, and repurchase and financial assistance problems; structural and financial considerations affecting non-corporate business forms such as joint ventures and trusts; relevant aspects of remedies in insolvent administration including receivership, liquidation schemes and official management.

90.440G Capital Gains Tax SS Hpw 2

Prerequisite: 90.444 or equivalent.

A critical analysis of the law and policy of tax on capital profits, including specific problems in the operation of the so-called Australian Capital Gains Tax legislation.

The term 'capital gains tax' is a misnomer. The Australian tax is an extended statutory form of 'income' tax, catching gains on disposal of a wide range of interests. Its introduction and the recent Myer decision foreshadow a fundamental shift in the structure and preoccupations of the income tax system.

Topics include: Ideal concept of income and common law departures. Basic objectives of Australian 'extended income base'; horizontal equity, economic neutrality and selective non-neutralities, conversion of income into capital, design problems for Capital Gains Tax, lock-in, inflation adjustment, rollovers, transition problems, principal residence. Failure of tax on speculative transactions, Myer test, new jobs of the capital/income dichotomy. Scope of the Tax. Chargeable disposals, transition problems, cost base, inflation adjustment and losses. Negative gearing and timing asymmetries. Capital Gains on trust and company. High gearing and the arbitraging of income into capital gain. Anti-avoidance provisions and authority.

90.441G International Taxation SS Hpw 2

Prerequisite: 90.444 or equivalent.

With the closing of many domestic tax loopholes, the deregulation and meshing of the Australia economy with the world economy, international tax has moved out of the esoteric domain and become part of day to day practice. Fundamental changes were introduced by the Foreign Tax Credit System and the 'controlled' Foreign Corporation measures. This new system will commence in 1990 and the Tax Office is in the process of strengthening its complex audit and information gathering capacity to challenge many arrangements. These changes must be linked to existing law and the double tax treaties.

Topics include: Basic criteria for evaluation of international tax regimes; capital flow neutrality; structure of Australian law for taxation of foreign source income and non-residents. Transnational companies; mechanisms for shifting taxable income. Structure of double tax treaties. Source, Residence and Permanent Establishment Rules (including 'tie-breaker' rules in double tax treaties). Foreign tax credit system. Framework of US Double Tax Treaty and critical evaluation of its policy premises. Problems with US Treaty. Trusts, companies after imputation. Anti-avoidance provisions; jurisdictional limits, enforcement limits, shifting residence or source, information reporting, double dipping schemes, tax haven measures. Evaluation of Tax Office audit strategies.

90.442G Tax ProcedureSS Hpw 22

Prerequisite: 90.444 Elements of Income Tax Law or its equivalent.

(1) Tax rule-making: balance between statutes, regulations and rulings. Drafting of tax legislation and modes of consultation. The legislative process (with comparative insights). The role of discretions in tax legislation. (2) Internal organisation of the tax office. Self-assessment and its monitoring. Complex audit, business audit, desk audit. Compliance strategies. (3) Information gathering powers of the tax administration and their limitations, including professional privilege and the privilege against self-incrimination. Powers of taxpayers to obtain information on the basis of assessments. (4) Review mechanisms for tax office decisions: the Administrative Appeals Tribunal and the Courts. Procedural rules. Presenting a tax case (Documents, application of rules of evidence, use of experts). (5) Negotiation. (6) Collection and recovery of tax. (7) Tax as an example of mass decision-making in the public sector.

90.460G Legal Computer Applications DevelopmentSS Hpw 2

The theory and practice of developing computer applications for use in the law, with an emphasis on the use of knowledge-based systems. Each student will design and implement a computer application in an area of law of the student's choice, using both database and knowledge-based techniques. Familiarity with the use of a microcomputer and a word processing program is a prerequisite for the course. A knowledge of programming is not required, as the use of the necessary programs will be taught during the course. Some prior familiarity with searching legal databases such as Info One (formerly CLIRS) is desirable.

The course commences with an analysis of the design of conventional legal databases (text retrieval, litigation support etc.), and retrieval techniques, and moves progressively through the evaluation and application of the major approaches to developing legal expert systems. Topics include: principles of full-text retrieval; deficiencies of existing retrieval techniques; 'conceptual' retrieval systems and their relationship to knowledge-based systems; the nature of legal knowledge and reasoning and its capacity for computerised representation; relationship between formal logics, legal reasoning and expert systems; differences between legal document generators, decision network expert systems, rule-based expert systems and non-deductive expert systems; the communications aspects of knowledge-based technologies; special problems of case-law representation and reasoning; implications of knowledge-based technologies for the delivery of legal services and the role of law. All of these topics are taught in the context of 'hands on' development of applications. All classes take place in the Faculty Microcomputer Lab and enrolment is therefore limited to 25.

90.465G Data Surveillance and Information Privacy LawSS Hpw 2

Data surveillance, the techniques of social control through the use of information technology, is of increasing importance as a method of public and private administration. The subject analyses the uses and effectiveness of data surveillance techniques in such areas as tax and social security administration, prevention of credit and insurance fraud, direct marketing and criminal investigation. Techniques covered include screening and matching, and the use of expert systems. The practices and legal bases of documentary identification, on which data surveillance depends, is examined in relation to birth, death and marriage registers, the electoral roll, passports, drivers' licences, credit cards and other identification systems. The growing embodiment of data surveillance techniques in legislation as 'data surveillance law' is assessed. The perspective of the information systems discipline toward data surveillance techniques will supplement the legal approach.

Information privacy (or 'data protection') law aims to balance individual rights against the encroachments of data surveillance. The subject assesses the effectiveness of general law (e.g. breach of confidence) and such legislation as the Privacy Act 1988 (C'wealth), privacy aspects of freedom of information laws, official secrets laws, credit reporting legislation and rehabilitation of offenders legislation, as responses to data surveillance techniques. The international development of data protection standards as a response to 'trans-border data flows' is considered. The Privacy Act 1988, as Australia's first substantial data protection law, is examined in detail, particularly in relation to the interpretation of the 11 Information Privacy Principles, its inter-relationship with other legislation, and the remedies it provides to those harmed by data surveillance.

The emphasis is on the surveillance and protection of individuals, but the effect on businesses will also be considered.

Each student will examine in depth the legality, use and effectiveness of data surveillance techniques, and the effects of data protection law, on one area of public administration or commercial practice, as a substantial part of the course assessment.

90.655G Research Thesis: Two-session electiveF*90.656G Research Thesis: One-session elective*S1*90.657G Research Thesis: One-session elective*S2

A Research Thesis project shall be approved by the Head of the School of Law if: 1. a clearly defined project is presented; a thesis topic may be approved initially or at some subsequent stage. 2. the student has an academic background in legal study sufficient to handle the subject matter of the thesis in an adequate manner. 3. adequate supervision is available; supervision may be conjoint but at least one supervisor must be a full-time member of academic staff.

The School of Law may approve a Research Thesis but in doing so may limit its approval to a one-session elective. A student who has received approval for a one-session elective may be given subsequent approval to have his or her project transferred to a two-session elective (90.655G). Similarly a student who has received approval for a two-session elective (90.655G) may be given retrospective approval for transfer to a one-session elective.

Thesis

The thesis must be typed on A4 bond paper and two copies must be prepared in a cover (spring back folder or bound).

References may appear at the foot of each page or at the end of each chapter. As a general rule the thesis shall be a maximum of 12,500 words for a one-session project or 25,000 words for a two-session project.

Examination

Two examiners, one of whom may be the supervisor, shall be appointed for each thesis by the School of Law. The final date for submission of the thesis shall be the last day of session for which the candidate is registered for the thesis or such other date as the examiners may agree.

Examiners may require a candidate to attend an oral examination on the subject matter of the thesis; examiners may require a thesis to be re-submitted under such conditions as the examiners may determine.

90.800G Judging

F Hpw 2

Judging is regarded by common lawyers as the focal activity of the legal system. In a practical sense lawyers are experts on judging. This expertise, however, rarely extends to understanding what judges do, in the sense of being able to give a coherent account of it. That is one of the special provinces of jurisprudence.

This subject examines the character and ingredients of judicial decision. Specific attention will be paid to the characteristic modes of judicial argument, to what distinguishes judicial from other forms of decision-making and to the relationships between existing law and judicial reasoning and justification.

Among the works discussed will be Llewellyn's The Common Law Tradition, Lon Fuller's important and scattered essays on adjudication as a specific form of social ordering, Julius Stone's Precedent and Law, and Ronald Dworkin's oeuvre.

90.801G Law, Language and Power

SS Hpw 2

An examination of the relationship between law, language and power as considered in a number of differing theoretical approaches including those of H.L.A. Hart, Ronald Dworkin and the Critical Legal Studies movement.

Topics include: (1) Historical survey of philosophic approaches to language and interpretation, classical rhetoric; (2) the legacy of linguistic positivism, especially the legal formalism of Kelsen and the legal subjectivism of Hart; (3) Law as social discourse, a language of power: Foucault; (4) Power and knowledge, law as discipline; (5) the construction of meaning in law, the search for a theory of interpretation, Dworkin and his critics; (6) Law as a social and political discourse.

90.802G Law and the Social Sciences A: Law and Economics

SS Hpw 2

An examination of the law and its institutions, techniques and purposes through the application of the concepts and methodology of economic theory. The economic approach to law has had a major influence in the USA and is also establishing itself in other countries. Law and legal institutions affect the allocation and distribution of resources. Without presupposition of any particular political or ideological perspective, the theoretical and empirical methods of economics can illuminate the nature of law.

The subject will aim to introduce students to selected economic techniques and concepts and to provide an awareness of the range of legal subject matter susceptible to economic analysis.

90.803G Law and the Social Sciences B: Law and Politics

SS Hpw 2

A thematically focussed investigation of the relationships between law and political power. Three approaches especially will be discussed: (1) Law as an instrument of power; (2) Law as a means of legitimising power; (3) Law as a restraint on power.

90.845G Pacific Legal Systems

SS Hpw 2

An introduction to the emerging legal systems of the Pacific Islands states, including issues of constitutional development, the recognition and application of customary law, modern and traditional legal institutions, land tenure regimes, personal law, and the legal recognition of economic activity, such as international trade, foreign investment and national resources projects. In addition to surveying the position of particular states, there will also be consideration of the nature and role of regional organisations, such as the South Pacific Forum and the Forum Fishing Agency.

90.846G Asian Legal Systems

SS Hpw 2

An introduction to the major features of the legal systems of East Asia, especially Japan and the People's Republic of China. The modernisation of law will be considered against the background of the culture, history and social organisation of those states. Particular issues include the nature and role of the legal profession, processes of dispute resolution (inside and outside of the court systems), notions of contract and property law, and regulation of economic activity. Knowledge of an Asian language is not required -- all instructional materials are in English.

Graduate Diplomas

Higher Degrees

Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) (under review)

Qualifications

1. The degree of Doctor of Philosophy may be awarded by the Council on the recommendation of the Higher Degree Committee of the appropriate faculty or board (hereinafter referred to as the Committee) to a candidate who has made an original and significant contribution to knowledge.

2. (1) A candidate for the degree shall have been awarded an appropriate degree of Bachelor with Honours from the University of New South Wales or a qualification considered equivalent from another university or tertiary institution at a level acceptable to the Committee

(2) In exceptional cases an applicant who submits evidence of such other academic and professional qualifications as may be approved by the Committee may be permitted to enrol for the degree.

(3) If the Committee is not satisfied with the qualifications submitted by an applicant the Committee may require the applicant to undergo such assessment or carry out such work as the Committee may prescribe, before permitting enrolment as a candidate for the degree.

Enrolment and Progression

3. (1) An application to enrol as a candidate for the degree shall be made on the prescribed form which shall be lodged with the Academic Registrar at least one calendar month before the commencement of the session in which enrolment is to begin.

(2) In every case, before permitting a candidate to enrol, the head of the school* in which the candidate intends to enrol shall be satisfied that adequate supervision and facilities are available.

(3) An approved candidate shall be enrolled in one of the following categories:

(a) full-time attendance at the University;

(b) part-time attendance at the University.

(4) A full-time candidate shall be fully engaged in advanced study and research except that the candidate may undertake not more than five hours per week or a total of 240 hours per year on work which is not related to the advanced study and research.

(5) Before permitting a part-time candidate to enrol, the Committee shall be satisfied that the candidate can devote at least 20 hours each week to advanced study and research for the degree which (subject to (8)) shall include regular attendance at the school* on an average of at least one day per week for 48 weeks each year.

* Or department where a department is not within a school, or schools or departments where the research is being undertaken in more than one school or department.

(6) A candidate shall be required to undertake an original investigation on an approved topic. The candidate may also be required to undergo such assessment and perform such other work as may be prescribed by the Committee.

(7) The work shall be carried out under the direction of a supervisor appointed from the full-time academic members of the University staff

(8) The work, other than field work, shall be carried out in a school of the University except that the Committee:

(a) may permit a candidate to spend not more than eighteen months of the program in advanced study and research at another institution provided the work can be supervised in a manner satisfactory to the Committee;

(b) may permit a candidate to conduct the work at other places where special facilities not possessed by the University may be available provided the direction of the work remains wholly under the control of the supervisor;

(c) may permit a full-time candidate, who has been enrolled as a full-time candidate for at least six academic sessions, who has completed the research work and who is writing the thesis, to transfer to part-time candidature provided the candidate devotes at least 20 hours each week to work for the degree and maintains adequate contact with the supervisor.

(9) The progress of a candidate shall be reviewed annually by the Committee following a report by the candidate, the supervisor and the head of the school* in which the candidate is enrolled and as a result of such review the Committee may cancel enrolment or take such other action as it considers appropriate.

(10) No candidate shall be awarded the degree until the lapse of six academic sessions from the date of enrolment in the case of a full-time candidate or eight academic sessions in the case of a part-time candidate. In the case of a candidate who has had previous research experience the committee may approve remission of up to two sessions for a full-time candidate and four sessions for a part-time candidate.

(11) A full-time candidate for the degree shall present for examination not later than ten academic sessions from the date of enrolment. A part-time candidate for the degree shall present for examination not later than twelve academic sessions from the date of enrolment. In special cases an extension of these times may be granted by the Committee.

4. (1) On completing the program of study a candidate shall submit a thesis embodying the results of the investigation.

Thesis

(2) The candidate shall give in writing to the Academic Registrar two months notice of intention to submit the thesis.

(3) The thesis shall comply with the following requirements.:

(a) it must be an original and significant contribution to knowledge of the subject;

(b) the greater proportion of the work described must have been completed subsequent to enrolment for the degree;

(c) it must be written in English except that a candidate in the Faculty of Arts may be required by the Committee to write a thesis in an appropriate foreign language;

(d) it must reach a satisfactory standard of expression and presentation;

(e) it must consist of an account of the candidate's own research but in special cases work done conjointly with other persons may be accepted provided the Committee is satisfied about the extent of the candidate's part in the joint research.

(4) The candidate may not submit as the main content of the thesis any work or material which has previously been submitted for a university degree or other similar award but may submit any work previously published whether or not such work is related to the thesis.

(5) Four copies of the thesis shall be presented in a form which complies with the requirements of the University for the preparation and submission of theses for higher degrees.

(6) It shall be understood that the University retains the four copies of the thesis submitted for examination and is free to allow the thesis to be consulted or borrowed. Subject to the provisions of the Copyright Act, 1968, the University may issue the thesis in whole or in part, in photostat or microfilm or other copying medium.

* Or department where a department is not within a school, or schools or departments where the research is being undertaken in more than one school or department.

As a general rule subject to special circumstances, the supervisors of full-time and part-time PhD candidates shall, within 2 or 4 sessions (respectively) of the candidate's enrolment as a PhD candidate, submit to the Committee a special report on the candidate's progress in general, and also upon a substantial piece of written work of the candidate forming part of or relating to the approved thesis topic.

Examination

5. (1) There shall be not fewer than three examiners of the thesis, appointed by the Academic Board on the recommendation of the Committee, at least two of whom shall be external to the University.
- (2) At the conclusion of the examination each examiner shall submit to the Committee a concise report on the thesis and shall recommend to the Committee that:
 - (a) the candidate be awarded the degree without further examination; or
 - (b) the candidate be awarded the degree without further examination subject to minor corrections as listed being made to the satisfaction of the head of the school*; or
 - (c) the candidate be awarded the degree subject to a further examination on questions posed in the report, performance in this further examination being to the satisfaction of the Committee; or
 - (d) the candidate be not awarded the degree but be permitted to resubmit the thesis in a revised form after a further period of study and/or research; or
 - (e) the candidate be not awarded the degree and be not permitted to resubmit the thesis.
- (3) If the performance at the further examination recommended under (2)(c) above is not to the satisfaction of the Committee, the Committee may permit the candidate to re-present the same thesis and submit to further examination as determined by the Committee within a period specified by it but not exceeding eighteen months.
- (4) The Committee shall, after consideration of the examiners' reports and the results of any further examination, recommend whether or not the candidate may be awarded the degree. If it is decided that the candidate be not awarded the degree the Committee shall determine whether or not the candidate be permitted to resubmit the thesis after a further period of study and/or research.

Fees

6. A candidate shall pay such fees as may be determined from time to time by the Council.

Master of Laws (LLM)

Qualifications

1. The degree of Master of Laws by research may be awarded by the Council on the recommendation of the Higher Degree Committee of the Faculty of Law (hereinafter referred to as the Committee) to a candidate who has demonstrated ability to undertake research by the submission of a thesis embodying the results of an original investigation.
2. (1) A candidate for the degree shall have been awarded an appropriate degree of Bachelor from the University of New South Wales or a qualification considered equivalent from another university or tertiary institution at a level acceptable to the Committee.
- (2) In exceptional cases an applicant who submits evidence of such other academic and professional qualifications as may be approved by the Committee may be permitted to enrol for the degree.
- (3) When the Committee is not satisfied with the qualifications submitted by an applicant the Committee may require the applicant, before being permitted to enrol, to undergo such examination or carry out such work as the Committee may prescribe.

Enrolment and Progression

- (2) In every case, before permitting a candidate to enrol, the Head of the School of Law (hereinafter referred to as the head of the school) shall be satisfied that adequate supervision and facilities are available.
- (3) An approved candidate shall be enrolled in one of the following categories:
 - (a) full-time attendance at the University;
 - (b) part-time attendance at the University;
 - (c) external - not in regular attendance at the University and using research facilities external to the University.
- (4) A candidate shall be required to undertake an original investigation on an approved topic. The candidate may also be required to undergo such examination and perform such other work as may be prescribed by the Committee.
- (5) The work shall be carried out under the direction of a supervisor appointed from the full-time members of the University staff.
- (6) Full-time and part-time (or external) candidates for the degree shall submit, within one or two sessions of enrolment respectively, a substantial piece of written work forming part of or relating to the approved topic. If this work is unsatisfactory or not forthcoming, the Committee will review the candidate's enrolment. In any case, the progress of a candidate shall be reviewed annually by the Committee following a report by the candidate, the supervisor and the head of the school, and as a result of such review the Committee may cancel enrolment or take such other action as it considers appropriate.

(7) No candidate shall be granted the degree until the lapse of three academic sessions in the case of a full-time candidate or four academic sessions in the case of a part-time or external candidate from the date of enrolment. In the case of a candidate who has been awarded the degree of Bachelor with Honours or the equivalent of Honours or who has had previous research experience the Committee may approve remission of up to one session for a full-time candidate and two sessions for a part-time or external candidate.

(8) A full-time candidate for the degree shall present for examination not later than six academic sessions from the date of enrolment. A part-time or external candidate for the degree shall present for examination not later than ten academic sessions from the date of enrolment. In special cases an extension of these times may be granted by the Committee.

4. (1) On completing the program of study a candidate shall submit a thesis embodying the results of the original investigation.

Thesis

(2) The candidate shall give in writing two months notice of intention to submit the thesis.

(3) The thesis shall present an account of the candidate's own research. In special cases work done conjointly with other persons may be accepted, provided the Committee is satisfied about the extent of the candidate's part in the joint research.

(4) Three copies of the thesis shall be presented in a form which complies with the requirements of the University for the preparation and submission of higher degree theses.

(5) It shall be understood that the University retains the three copies of the thesis submitted for examination and is free to allow the thesis to be consulted or borrowed. Subject to the provisions of the Copyright Act, 1968, the University may issue the thesis in whole or in part, in photostat or microfilm or other copying medium.

5. (1) There shall be not fewer than two examiners of the thesis, appointed by the Academic Board on the recommendation of the Committee, at least one of whom shall be external to the University unless the Committee is satisfied that this is not practicable.

Examination

(2) At the conclusion of the examination each examiner shall submit to the Committee a concise report on the merits of the thesis and shall recommend to the Committee that:

(a) the candidate be awarded the degree without further examination; or

(b) the candidate be awarded the degree without further examination subject to minor corrections as listed being made to the satisfaction of the head of the school; or

(c) the candidate be awarded the degree subject to a further examination on questions posed in the report, performance in this further examination being to the satisfaction of the Committee; or

(d) the candidate be not awarded the degree but be permitted to resubmit the thesis in a revised form after a further period of study and/or research; or

(e) the candidate be not awarded the degree and be not permitted to resubmit the thesis.

(3) If the performance at the further examination recommended under (2)(c) above is not to the satisfaction of the Committee, the Committee may permit the candidate to re-present the same thesis and submit to a further oral, practical or written examination within a period specified by it but not exceeding eighteen months:

(4) The Committee shall, after consideration of the examiners' reports and the reports of any oral or written or practical examination, recommend whether or not the candidate may be awarded the degree. If it is decided that the candidate be not awarded the degree the Committee shall determine whether or not the candidate may resubmit the thesis after a further period of study and/or research.

6. A candidate shall pay such fees as may be determined from time to time by the Council.

This Handbook has been specifically designed as a source of reference for you and will prove useful for consultation throughout the year.

For fuller details about the University – its organization, staff membership, description of disciplines, scholarships, prizes, and so on, you should consult the Calendar.

The Calendar and Handbooks also contain a summary list of higher degrees as well as the conditions for their award applicable to each volume.

For detailed information about courses, subjects and requirements of a particular faculty you should consult the relevant Faculty Handbook.

Separate Handbooks are published for the Faculties of Applied Science, Architecture, Arts, Commerce and Economics, Engineering, Law, Medicine, Professional Studies, Science (including Biological and Behavioural Sciences and the Board of Studies in Science and Mathematics), and the Australian Graduate School of Management (AGSM).

The Calendar and Handbooks, which vary in cost, are available from the Cashier's Office.
